No recession here, merchants say

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

Antioch businesses reported this week that although the Christmas season started a little slow, things are picking up or are expected to pick up and match sales from last year.

"To be honest with you, it's been going crummy, but in the last two weeks it straightened out and it's been going good for us," said Bob Hawkins of Patricia's Giftware.

"Right now it's looking real good. I expect next week we'll be busier than all getup."

Over at Ben Franklin's, owner Don Marski said: "It's been flat. No big increases, no big decreases. I'm expecting to at least break even with last year's numbers."

These reports are fairly optimistic in the face of this season's economic doomsayer's, who publicly predicted a lackluster holiday buying season in the midst of this year's recession.

Though merchants said the amount of street traffic appears to be down, the numbers are not as bad as what was expected.

"Not as much as what the publicity gives it," said Laddie Korecek of Johnson Jewelers. "It seems to be fine here. It's looking up."

Even Antioch's most glum merchant report referred to the season as a "mediocre response to sales."

"Our sales haven't been real strong to this point," said Wayne Vivirito, owner of King's Pharmacy.

The situation was similar at Sears, where the season wound down this week as catalog shoppers wrapped up their Christmas buying for the year.

"We're slower than last year, but not real bad," said Sears store owner Wally Mozal. "Better than expected."

Wilton returns to Board Jan. 6

Antioch Mayor Robert Wilton said he will be back chairing Village Board meetings starting Jan. 6.

Wilton has been recovering from heart surgery since late September, when he underwent a triple bypass.

The mayor reportedly suffered a mild heart attack prior to entering the hospital for surgery.

Although he's been absent from the Village Board's regular tri-monthly meetings, Wilton did appear at the Village's tree-lighting ceremony Nov. 29.

He said this week his doctor has advised him against working all day and then attending Village Board meetings at night.

However, starting with the Board's Jan. 6 regular meeting, Wilton will be presiding once again. His doctors have given him the go-ahead, he said.

Although he hasn't been at the meetings, Wilton said he has been regularly checked on business at Village Hall.

Needy look to Santa for help

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The letters to Santa keep coming through Antioch, though not at the rate of previous years, the Village's Parks and Recreation Dept. reported.

Apparently, other agencies around the state are helping St. Nick get his mail.

Still, the Village has handled close to 500 letters so far. The mail comes locally, via Kris Kringle's mailbox near Santa's Enchanted Castle, and from other states.

When Charlie left the New Year's party he said "see you next year". But unfortunately, he didn't live to see the following day.

He was just one of thousands of ordinary people who are killed or injured in alcohol-related auto accidents each year.

And what his friends will remember most, is that they just didn't notice that he had had too much to drink before he got behind the wheel.

This holiday season, make a resolution to use good judgement. Don't drink and drive. And watch out for the other guy, too.

Principal resigns at Village elementary

ROUND LAKE—The principal of Village Elementary School submitted his resignation to the board effective in June. Ronald Ziemann became principal one-and-a-half years ago following the resignation of the former principal. He submitted his resignation to Dist. 116 board members for "personal and professional reasons."

Deer Point asks for Grayslake nod

GRAYSLAKE—Hainesville is seeking the help of its neighbor in securing a new sewer service district for the Deer Point Trails subdivision. Hainesville is seeking a letter from Grayslake supporting its use of the county's interceptor sewer and a redesignation. Grayslake reaffirmed previous positions regarding stormwater management, impact fees and lot sizes adjacent to West Trails subdivision. Deer Point plans call for 200 single-family homes with an average square footage of 7,200.

Village seeks water, sewer efficiency

FOX LAKE — Fox Lake will look into having an efficiency study done on its water and sewer operations after briefly flirting with the idea of hiring an independent firm to run the department. Trustee John Erdman Jr., chairman of the sewer and water committee, said it was decided the hiring of an independent company was not feasible. "We're looking to see if we can improve our sewer and water department — that's all," Erdman said. "Some people say costs are too high and they don't have a good idea of what's going on with the department. If we hired an independent firm, they still wouldn't know what's going on — it would just be someone else running it."

Stevenson students give holiday cheer

PRAIRIE VIEW—Needy Lake County families will receive a helping hand this holiday season from students at Stevenson High School in Prairie View. The students have been gathering food, clothing and gifts for families adopted by their home rooms. In all, their "give-a-thon" program will reach-out to 90 families in Lake County. "The program is great in terms of making people go beyond themselves to look at the needs of others and reach out to help them," said Dan Bender, Spanish Teacher at Stevenson High School.

March library referendum halted

LAKE VILLA — Citing economic concerns, the Lake Villa District Library Board of Directors has voted to postpone its $5.3 million March referendum. The $5.3 million was supposed to give the board some leeway, but when the architects recently returned a cost estimate at $6.1 million to enlarge the library, the board said it decided to take a closer look before coming to voters. Library Board President Joyce Heneberry said, "We know the community is in a delicate condition because of the economy. We're trying to be sensitive to the community."

IDOC buys first of 1,000 Antioch acres

CHICAGO — The Illinois Dept. of Conservation has purchased approximately 300 acres of Red Wing Slough and Deer Lake in Antioch and is negotiating with landowners to buy 700 acres more. "It's one of the first of what we hope are several future purchases," said IDOC spokeswoman Carol Knowles. The state has been eyeing the 1,000 acres east of the Village for 10 years, Knowles said. Funds were finally available this year. An IDOC survey claims that nine endangered or threatened species have been observed there since 1981. Among the birds which nest there, in an area reportedly considered the state's best for bird-watching, are black terns, common moorhens, least bitterns, pied-bill grebes and yellow-headed blackbirds.

Lakes chair not named yet

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Chain O' Lakes Waterway Mgt. Agency Board of Directors continued to mull a replacement for former chairman John Soffiatti, who died Nov. 26.

The board was scheduled to discuss a replacement at its Dec. 13 meeting.

Roy Gundelach, a Lake County director for the agency, declined to comment on the meeting, saying he would have more to report after Dec. 23.

Gundelach said the appointment to Soffiatti's seat likely will be one of the existing directors. A new person then will be appointed to replace the director taking over Soffiatti's post.

The agency has three directors from Lake County and three from McHenry County.

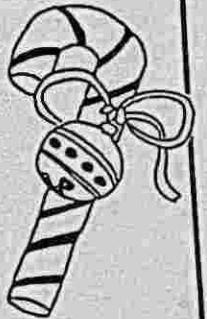

If the chairman's seat is filled by a Lake County director, a new Lake County director will be appointed. The same would hold true if a McHenry County director succeeds Soffiatti.

Up for the chairman's seat are Gundelach, Judy Martini or Carl Warner from Lake County and Bruce Bossow, Charles Kemp or George Thompson from McHenry County.

This is the second time a seat on the Chain O' Lakes Waterway Mgt. Agency has been vacated since it was created in 1986. Another member once resigned.

Voters normally elect the chairman and directors to the management committee. Soffiatti's seat will open again in about two years.

Bank's 55-plus club adds travel to its services

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The State Bank of Antioch hosted 585 clients from its 55-plus Club at a Christmas Luncheon at Hogan's Restaurant to kick-off a new range of services that includes a travel program.

Now referring to it as the "55-plus Club etc.," the improved association is still offered to those with a checking account at State Bank of Antioch who are age 55 or older.

This amounts to 1,843 customers from the Antioch, Fox Lake, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst areas, bank officials said.

Jeff Biel of Tri-State Tours discusses the travel club added to the State Bank of Antioch's 55-plus Club etc. during last week's luncheon at Hogan's Restaurant. — photo by Doug Dusik

Members enjoy, among other things, free checking, money orders, a Cash Station ATM card and safekeeping of wills, a discount safe deposit box, unlimited savings withdrawals, Lake County real estate tax payments and the 1st annual fee waived on a credit card.

But the news, and the purpose of last week's luncheon, is the travel club, which begins its trips in March.

"There are a lot of clubs out there but we wanted to be more," said Carolyn Blanchette, State Bank of Antioch assistant vice president and trust officer.

For $15 a year, 55-plus Club etc. members are entitled to jump aboard five scheduled trips and some Cubs games that are yet to be announced for 1992.

Furthermore, the bank promises to return the $15 when club members board the bus for their first trip. The $15 fee is to make sure people who join the travel part of 55-plus Club etc. are serious about taking the trips.

Tri-State Tours is responsible for the luxury bus and destinations.

"We try to do stuff that is a little bit different than what the others do," said Jeff Biel of Tri-State Tours. "We try to be trend setters instead of trend followers."

Trips kick off on March 25 with a drive to the Rosemont Horizon stadium to view the Ice Capades. Cost is $49. Dinner theater at the Clocktower Inn in Rockford is slated for May 14, $39, and 55-plus Club etc. members will be at the Taste of Milwaukee on July 15 if they sign up and pay their $44 fee.

All fees include transportation, meals, tips and accommodations, where applicable.

On Sept. 15, the 55-plus Club etc. is hosting a trip to Dubuque, Iowa, to board the Casino Belle Riverboat, $54. And the scheduled events wrap up Dec. 2 with Christmas in Racine, $39.

Adult friends are invited to join any 55-plus etc. members at an additional cost. Any questions on the trips should be directed to Blanchette.

Carrying Santa's Surplus temporarily for Christmas

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

In a formerly vacant storefront on Main St., Chris Jorgensen has set up Santa's Surplus, a clearinghouse for Christmas supplies that will close after two months.

It's an annual part of House of Lloyd Party Plans of Grandview, Mo.. Jorgensen has been with the house party product company two years.

"I felt Antioch needed a store like this," Jorgensen said. "It's hard for a lot of the older residents to get around, so it's nice to have a store like this for them."

Featuring Christmas wrap and decorations, the store also is a clearinghouse for toys and giftware. Jorgensen said the toys and porcelain dolls are especially popular.

Despite the recession, she said, business has been steady and the other stores don't seem to mind the competition.

"It's something more to attract business downtown," Jorgensen said.

Don Raplinger, supervisor of Santa's Surplus for House of Lloyd, estimated the company has been working out of temporary holiday stores for about 15 years.

"It's not a gain but the company is a big company, so it's significant enough that we do it every year," Raplinger said. "We're expanding every year."

House of Lloyd jumped from 250 stores in 1990 to 400 Santa Surpluses this year, he said.

Chris Jorgensen manages Santa's Surplus on Main St., which she says is bringing additional shoppers downtown. — photo by Doug Dusik

"It's a vehicle to sell the products that we have carried over in part, and the goods we buy out from closeout merchants," Raplinger said.

For Jorgensen, the season started by renting a vacant storefront. Then, one whole day was spent unloading a truck full of merchandise into the store.

Eight weeks of sales come next, then back into the truck go the unsold products. And Jorgensen will continue to schedule house parties for House of Lloyd products until next Christmas, when the process will be repeated.

BEST continuing its patrol

Better Education/Sensible Taxes (BEST), the community watchdog group that opposed the $32 million bond for a new Antioch Community High School facility in the November election, is continuing to meet regularly.

BEST meets every third Wednesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. For information on the location call 395-3544.

"The bond issues are going to keep coming," said Alan Knutsen, BEST president. "We're going to keep evaluating the bond issues as they keep coming down the line and evaluate whether the taxpayer's money is being well-spent."

Dist. 34 in Antioch, for example, recently announced a $5.9 million bond referendum to build additions to its schools for March. Other feeder districts to ACHS are or will be considering similar bond issues.

"The schools do need money and we recognize that," Knutsen said. "But we want our money spent wisely."

The ACHS referendum was defeated 4,216 to 2,597 on Nov. 7.

Victory Lakes cuts day care to three days

Victory Lakes has cut its adult day care program to three days a week — Tuesday through Thursday from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Sandy Smith, adult day care coordinator, said the program was cut by two days because the majority of participants were brought in on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Victory Lakes' day care program acts as a safety net for those who care for elderly family members.

The time participants spend in the music, exercise, bingo, arts & crafts and field trips programs is time that caregivers may use as they wish, such as to go out for lunch with friends.

"Families have a better opportunity to deal with stress and frustration when they are freed from the stress of daily care at regular intervals," Smith said.

For more information about the Victory Lakes program call 356-4565.

Continue your leisurely walk through Antioch with Russ

Editor's note: Russ Fairchild, retired Antioch postal carrier, is a keen observer of Antioch activities as he takes his walks around the Village. Following is the third part of his annual Christmas stroll, a tradition in the Antioch News-Reporter.

Antioch Family Restaurant (formerly 'Bee Hive')

Old and now new owner-Nick Jahja. Well, sooner or later it was destined to happen, and that's good for Antioch. How rewarding to make a comeback to your old stomping grounds, that you never should have left, but fate dealt you a bad hand first time around. Jean Zak and I were graciously welcomed a short time ago here. We found a neat, clean establishment, good food, pleasant atmosphere. We were also happy to find a dear friend and waitress, Penny Soulak had returned. Our best wishes to Nick.

Let's digress a little. The year is 1979. The Bee Hive Restaurant. Hostess and cashier, Adeline Goodrich. Manager Marsha Beth. Waitresses, Penny Soulak, Donna Barth, Breeze Zeimet, Judy Franz, Utility, Brian Ludwick.

A few customers, Henry Malone, Jerry Soulak, John Blackman, the late Uncle John Christensen, the late Frank Recupido. The popular cook was none other than, Bobby Fidanovski, who is the new owner of the Lakeside Restaurant. And the cheerful mailman was Frank Schultz.

Las Vegas Restaurant The Katris Family

Perhaps you, too, can sense that strong feeling of well-being upon entering this, the oldest family establishment in Antioch.

Where, most of the other restaurants have had the misfortune to succumb to business pressures, disagreements and bad judgement fortunately, none of these disasters have occurred here. Diners are relaxed and at ease. Such as Donald Skidmore, superintendent of schools, and Donald Amundsen, village trustee, being served at the counter by popular Pam Estrada. Barber Dick Radke and Henry Hoffkamp are nearby.

Over in the spacious dining room you might find the cheerful breakfast club of the Tarkowski's: Ruth, Bonnie and Bridget. Myrus Nelson, Paul Maginot, Lee, Shirley Robinson, and Howard Wells, all gathered at the large round table, being catered to by senior waitress Jean Benser.

Veteran waitress Shirley Vaughn is attending George Ptak and Paul Dye in a booth. Seated nearby is a favorite couple of mine for many years, Ken and Bobbi Knackstedt, famous Moose clowns, giving their orders to pretty Maria Bruha.

Dear Friends Ema and one of Antioch's (Era of Chief Jack Wells) finest, retired police officer Harold Mason, are being cared for by pretty Rita Torres. Jim Leahy, an old neighbor from Austin. Robert Ruggles, a fine electrical contractor, just came in.

A sad note: Steven Pacini, businessman, is no longer with us, as he made his final curtain call on Sept. 6, as did our former friend and mayor, Mo Cunningham, on Sept. 3.

And now, lest we forget, Gus Diaman Topoulos is still recuperating from that almost fatal auto accident, so let's all send holiday wishes up to Gus and his lovely wife, Yahna, at their Sunshine Restaurant in Kenosha.

Lakeside Restaurant Proprietor- Bob Fidanovski

Yes, the Turners, Carl and Margie, have called it a day. We shall all miss them greatly. However, the new owner, Bobby Fidanovski, is not a stranger to Antioch. Oh no, he was the popular cook over at the old Bee Hive restaurant, back in the era of 1979, with the owner that was there then and who has made a triumphant return now, Nick Jahja.

Now, let's dine. Old-timers Glenn

Fox, Paul Zelen and the Effingers, John and Mildred, are at the counter being served by Michele Lehimann.

Charming "Welcome Mat" Realtor Addie Goodrich, is having breakfast, as is Richard Irman. You can see the tempo hasn't changed. Bill Pflaum, fine musician and impresario is checking his stack of mail as he relaxes in a window booth, being served by Jeri Taylor. Milton Tate, as usual, drops in. Two of my favorite neighbors are alone in a wall booth, Mary and Gene Hermano. Gene and I both attended the same Austin High School in Chicago.

Another Christmas Stroll Through Town

Please hold on to your seats, because it's just about time for the holdovers from "Footlights '91" to be coming in. The front booths will be occupied by the pleasant parishioners from St. Peter's Church. To wit: Lottie Vejvoda, Clare and Bob Kadera, Vi Werda, Gertrude Lorenz, Kathie Davis, Jim and Vickie Vermillion and the Lombardo's, Fran and Sam. As customary, and with great reverence, Sam blesses the food.

And talk about timing, a cab pulls up in front and a very refined lady, also from out parish, Georgiana Carey, enters. Marvelous Marilyn Edwards is their charming hostess. Waitress Jeri Taylor, a professional bird fancier, serves Marvin and Verna Vestal, a very charming couple. So, let us all give a warm welcome to Bobbie and Silvana and their new-born baby girl, Maja.—"May God bless them."

Strolling west on Lake St., the driver of a village vehicle waved "Hello" to me. It was village foreman Mike Ruxton. I'll say this, "Hizzoner" the mayor knew what he was doing when he chose the caliber of men like Joe Huber, Mike Ruxton, Dick, and Administrator Timothy Wells. "Nufsed."

Will the real Mitchell Elliott please stand up

by LIZ SCHMEHL (708)395-5380

Many Names

Little Mitchell Elliott is in his second year of the Camp Crayon program. Last year I often called him Elliot instead of Mitchell. This year Miss Marie often calls him Matt as that is Mitchell's older brother's name. However he is now use to our mistakes and answers to either Mitchell, or Elliot or Matt or Mitchell Elliot Matthew! In fact, he came in one day and told Miss Marie to call him Matt because he changed his name. It certainly doesn't take long for these little ones to get two steps ahead of us.

Recently his mom dropped him off and said, "Bye, Mitch." I almost corrected her and said, "You mean Elliot," when I realized no she didn't, Mitch is his name! Really, Mrs. Elliot, we do call him Mitchell most of the time and we definitely enjoy Mitchell's good-natured acceptance of our bloopers.

Thanksgiving Feast

Once again Camp Crayon director, Marie Brausam organized a special Thanksgiving Feast for all three sessions of Camp Crayon. Picture this—24 precious little people dressed as Pilgrim girls and Indian braves cooking a feast of pumpkin pie, corn bread muffins and popcorn, and believe this, they all did an excellent job.

After all of this is accomplished, the tables are lined up in a row and each Indian and Pilgrim takes a turn passing out a small portion of the tasty meal they each helped prepare.

The children really enjoy this holiday celebration as they role play the original settlers and Indians of days gone by. Miss Marie, Miss Liz, Miss JoAnne and Miss Mary really enjoy the proud looks on the little ones' faces as they eat the food they prepared with their very own hands!

Family Moment

As you all know, the Lizard is going to become a first-time granny in January. In celebration of this up-coming joyous event, the Schmehl women—Donna, Karen and Lizard—hosted a baby shower for Barbara and company. Due to the many family members and friends who joined in our happy celebration, the shower was a huge success.

After all the guests arrived, Barb took her seat on our wicker chair, which was surrounded by mounds of beautifully wrapped gifts, and she excitedly began the opening process.

Barb's aunts and cousins came from 50 miles away to enjoy the day with us.

Hometown Goodies

Dan's mom and sister and sister-in-law also came from a great distance to honor Barb and Baby Filipis.

The following Antioch area friends also attended: Debi Mozal, Janet Harrison, Marie Brausam, Dee Samson, Linda Boerman, JoAnne Weber, Debbie Foerster, Michelle Bailey, Charlene and Sarah Komperda, Darlene Olenick, Pat Lepsi and Elaine Lasky. Also my long-time (26 years) friend, Sylvia Vaughan, came all the way from Chicago to honor Barb and enjoy the festivities of the day.

Incidentally, I met Sylvia in the hospital when Barbara was born! Life goes on in special ways.

Tree Tag

My beautiful adopted stepdaughter, Cynthia Marquart, shared this special story with me involving her two sons, Chris and Tommy.

After they finished putting up their Christmas tree and decorating it, Cindy turned on the lights so the boys could enjoy the magic of the tree. Cindy began to notice that each time she left the room the boys would unplug the tree lights. She patiently plugged them back in. After about three days of playing light tag, Cindy's patience grew thin. She finally asked them why they were doing that and told them to please leave the lights alone.

The boys replied, "But, mom, we don't want the batteries to wear down!" Once again, out of the mouths of babes.

Noon Rendezvous

A recent noon-time visit to the Las Vegas Restaurant presented me with the pleasant opportunity to visit with Helen Nolan. When I first moved to Antioch in 1968, Helen was the president of the Grass Lake School PTA. Later, she became the head cook at Grass Lake School and spoiled the students and staff with her special weekly menus. Helen retired as the cook several years ago but she still helps out on occasion.

Helen, Martha Sturm and Stella Nelson were all enjoying a tasty lunch as they honored Veronica Waskins for her December 5, 89th birthday. When the waitresses came out with a candled birthday cake for Veronica, we all joined in singing "Happy Birthday" to her.

I now extend you one more birthday wish from Lizard and readers. Hope to see you all next year, same time, same place, celebrating Veronica's 90th birthday.

State buys first of 1,000 acres in Antioch

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Illinois Dept. of Conservation has purchased approximately 300 acres of Red Wing Slough and Deer Lake and is negotiating with landowners to buy 700 acres more.

"It's one of the first of what we hope are several future purchases," said IDOC spokeswoman Carol Knowles.

The state has been eyeing the 1,000 acres east of the Village for 10 years, Knowles said. Funds were finally available this year.

"It's a very high-quality area," she said. "The department has really been looking towards acquiring land in that area for the past decade."

The price for the land would not be disclosed because the IDOC is still negotiating with other area landowners.

The area being sought is the property of a variety of private owners, most of whom annexed into Antioch when the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. began showing an interest in purchasing some of the wetland and lake area.

Land uses out there presently include farming and a hunting club.

The area is home to several endangered plant and animal species, IDOC reports. A survey claims nine endangered or threatened species have been observed there since 1981.

Among the birds which nest there, in an area reportedly considered the state's best for bird-watching, are black terns, common moorhens, least bitterns, pied-bill grebes and yellow-headed blackbirds.

IDOC said 39 bird species have been observed at the site, which is threatened with development in the near future. Antioch calls for a limited buffer around the marsh, but zoning for the area is residential, IDOC said.

The site is made up of two basins that are divided by a berm with water levels controlled by two dams.

Knowles said primarily the land will be preserved.

"Open space is very important, particularly in northern Illinois, where open space has become more and more of a premium," she said.

Prosecution awaiting more information on case against Twp. man/Lake Villa teacher

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The Lake County State's Attorney's Office said Tuesday it is awaiting more information from police before bringing the case of Lake Villa Intermediate teacher Larry Bock before a Grand Jury.

Bock, an Antioch Twp. resident, is facing three charges of sex crimes against a former student.

Jeff Pavletic, chief of the state's attorney's felony review division, said he expects to seek an indictment in the next couple of weeks.

Pavletic originally planned to go before the Grand Jury Dec. 11.

A Lake Villa Dist. 41 teacher for 20-plus years, Bock is charged with one count of aggravated criminal assault and two counts of aggravated sexual abuse involving a student from two years ago.

The victim, a 14-year-old girl, told her mother Bock sexually assaulted her two years ago when she stayed after school one afternoon.

Lake Villa police said they were contacted by the victim's mother in September. Police said the victim told her mother she could no longer keep the incident to herself.

Dist. 41 officials have said they are standing behind Bock, who is on leave from Intermediate and awaiting his court appearance on pre-trial release.

Woman slices neck at shopping center

A 27-year-old Wisconsin woman told police she intentionally cut herself across the neck with a razor blade in the parking lot of Jewel/Osco Food Store on Nov. 12.

The Salem, Wis.,

resident reportedly bought the straight razor inside the store just after 11 p.m. She then returned to her van, which was parked in the store's fire lane, and cut herself across the neck, police said.

An employee found her slumped over the steering wheel and called authorities.

She was taken to St. Therese Hospital in Waukegan.

Police said the woman stated the cut to her neck was self-inflicted.

Two fires damage trailer, apartment

Two separate fires, including one deemed suspicious in cause, destroyed a vacation trailer and damaged the hallway of an apartment.

No injuries were reported.

According to the Fire Protection Agency of Antioch Twp., a suspicious fire destroyed a vacation trailer secured for the season at the Lighthouse Campground, 26044 Spring Grove Rd., in unincorporated Antioch Twp.

The Dec. 14, 6 p.m. fire had fully engulfed the trailer by the time firefighters arrived on the scene. No damage estimate was available.

The trailer is reportedly the property of Ralph Runions and Bonnie Delzell of Holly Hill, S.C.

On Dec. 13, a fire that broke out in the hallway of 282 Anita Terrace at 1:38 a.m. caused about $5,000 damage, the Antioch Fire Dept. reported.

The cause of the apartment fire is under investigation.

Student of the Month

Eric Nelson of Lake Villa was awarded by the Antich Exchange Club because of his activity with a church youth group, basketball, soccer, clubs and as president of the Antioch Community High School student council. Nelson received a $50 stipend. Any student interested in the award may pick up an application in the ACHS principal's office.

Letters

"I got a whole bunch from Kentucky today (Tuesday)," said Carol Todd, Antioch's Parks and Rec director.

Todd is handling the letters for Santa with some help from volunteers. So far, they haven't been overburdened, she said.

The Antioch Chamber of Commerce also helped St. Nick out by donating money for paper and postage. Local service groups help out with postage as well.

But even though the number of letters being answered by Santa is not as large as in the past, one group of letters are making their way through as usual — the needy.

These children ask from Santa not necessarily for themselves, but for siblings and parents. Many times their requests forgo the trendy toys to ask for staples, such as clothing.

Their sizes are included in the letters, which are available from Todd by calling 395-2160.

As of Tuesday afternoon, about a dozen letters from the needy were sitting in a special bin to Santa.

Some of the letters were not written by children at all, but by their parents, many of whom are single moms.

Todd said Santa has passed some of these letters on to civic and church groups, private individuals and a Lake County task force.

Others remain to be answered, and still more are expected to come.

Officer not charged in shooting deputy

No charges will be filed against a Gurnee officer following the domestic shooting and wounding of a Lake County deputy.

A Lake County grand jury did not file charges after deciding the Gurnee officer, Thomas Agos, acted in self-defense.

The jury heard testimony from four witnesses, including the wounded deputy, in Waukegan.

According to police reports, Agos allegedly fired seven shots at deputy Judy Mednick, 37, in her Libertyville apartment following a personal argument early Nov. 17. One of the bullets fired hit Mednick's right arm severing her artery, another grazed the top of her head and a third penetrated her calf.

Agos claimed self-defense in the act stating Mednick reached for a gun during the dispute and shouted threats of bodily harm at Agos as he ran for a bedroom in the rear of the apartment.

When Mednick arrived at the doorway of the room with gun in hand, Agos fired.

Agos applied a tourniquet to Mednick's arm and called the police.

Police said Mednick was drinking in a Round Lake area tavern prior to the incident, and allegedly did not remember the details of the incident. She was hospitalized more than 10 days at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville.

During the incident, Mednick did not fire her gun.

Gilleran-Johnson announces circuit judge candidacy

Barbara Gilleran-Johnson, associate judge of Lake County, has announced her entry as a Republican candidate for a new circuit judge opening in Lake County. The primary election is scheduled for March 17, 1992.

Judge Gilleran-Johnson, 39, of Long Grove, if elected will be the first woman circuit judge in the history of Lake County. She was appointed as an associate judge in March, 1987. Judge Gilleran-Johnson is responsible for presiding over jury trial matters. Her experience includes criminal, civil, custody and child abuse.

Gilleran-Johnson's professional background includes prosecuting for the Illinois Attorney General's office as Chief of the Crime Victim's Division, five years as an Assistant State's Attorney under Fred Foreman, assigned as the first Chief of the Juvenile Division. She established the first child protection team, and prosecuted violent child abusers, resulting in one of the first life imprisonment sentences for a child's homicide. Prior to her appointment, she was a partner in the law firm of Ori, Tepper, Fox, Maley, and Gilleran-Johnson, specializing in trial work.

B. Gilleran-Johnson

Gilleran-Johnson has participated both professionally and individually in community service projects, with an emphasis on children. She is the 1991 recipient of the Leadership Award for her outstanding efforts in preventing substance abuse as co-chairman of the "Fighting Back Task Force." Other leadership roles include an appointment by the Governor as a citizen advisor regarding child abuse; member of the Regional Action Planning Program (R.A.P.P.) concerning combatting gang violence; past vice-president of Community Youth Network; and past president of the Y.M.C.A. in Mundelein. Her involvement as an original task force member helped create "A Safe Place," a shelter for battered women.

"As a judge, you hold in your hands the public trust," said Gilleran-Johnson. "As a mother, attorney, prosecutor, and community member, I believe I can add a perspective to the judiciary that will benefit the entire community."

Her campaign headquarters are located at Welton's Management Services, 3575 Grand Ave., Gurnee. For information, call (708)336-2090.

New law will curb boat noise

A new law effective Jan. 1, 1992, will regulate boat noise on Illinois waterways by requiring motorboats to be equipped with mufflers that meet federal noise levels, according to the Senate sponsor of the bill, Sen. Jack Schaffer (R-McHenry County).

"Boat owners will be ticketed if they do not comply with this law, and penalties and fines have been established for violations," Sen. Schaffer said.

He added that fines will range from about $500 to as much as $10,000 for different offenses.

Exceptions are made for boats participating in a race or a regatta, or boats being tested by a manufacturer.

Sen. Schaffer said he introduced the legislation in response to complaints by homeowners, fishermen and hunters in the Chain O'Lakes area. Illinois law addressing motorboat mufflers did not deal with the problem of noise until now.

"Loud engine noise is created when owners of these large 'muscle boats do not use mufflers," said Sen. Schaffer. "This law isn't intended to spoil boaters' fun, but I think 90 decibels, which is the federal level, is reasonable. Those people on the shores are entitled to protection from this kind of noise pollution," Sen. Schaffer said.

Holiday tree roundup planned

A "Holiday Tree Roundup" program allows Lake County residents to drop off their used Christmas trees at nearby forest preserves from Dec. 28 through Jan. 20.

Lake County Forest Preserve crews will chip the trees into wood chips that will be used in forest preserve landscaping projects.

Before dropping off the trees, all tinsel and ornaments should be removed. Only Christmas trees will be accepted, no yard waste. Commercial tree sellers are prohibited.

Six forest preserves will accept trees: Van Patten Woods near Zion, Greenbelt in Waukegan and North Chicago, Old School near Libertyville, Ryerson Woods in Deerfield, Half Day near Vernon Hills, and Lakewood near Wauconda.

At each location, a drop off site will be marked in a parking lot. Forest preserves are open from 8 a.m. to sunset.

For more information, call (708)367-6640.

CLC Conducts on-site registration

The College of Lake County will conduct on-site registration for spring 1992 courses at five southwest Lake County locations. The spring semester will begin the week of Jan. 21.

Registration will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. at the following sites: Wauconda Public Library, 801 N. Main St., on Jan. 6 and 13; Buffalo Grove Golf Club, 48 Raupp Blvd., on Jan. 8 and 15; Adlai Stevenson High School, 16010 W. Highway 22, Prairie View, on Jan. 9 and Fremont Public Library, 470 N. Lake St., Mundelein, on Jan. 14.

CLC offers credit and non-credit courses at convenient local high schools and community sites for the residents of south Lake County. For information, call Southlake at (708)433-7884.

Convicted murderer gets new 'life' in prison

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

The jury may have saved his life, but his time will be spent in prison without any chance of parole.

Charles Ratzke, 25, of Round Lake Beach was sentenced Dec. 13 by Lake County Circuit Court Associate Judge Christopher Starck for the murder of prominent Waukegan attorney Robert Snook Jr. last spring.

Snook, 45, who lived near Round Lake Beach, was kidnapped from a car wash in his own vehicle on April 27, shot and then run down by the car.

Ratzke was convicted of the crime Nov. 13. The same jury also decided he should be spared the death penalty.

In pronouncing the sentence, however, Starck said Ratzke's spared life can never be set free in society again. The judge said that if Ratzke were allowed to roam again, he would probably kill again.

Starck called Ratzke violent and erratic. At last week's sentencing he told Ratzke he was a terrible danger to everyone in society and called Snook's death "heinous acts of exceptional brutality."

Prior to his sentence, State's Attorney Michael J. Waller and assistant George Strickland laid out a long history of Ratzke's criminal conduct.

A navy instructor testified that he and his car were attacked by Ratzke in Round Lake Beach in 1988.

And Mark Hamilton, an accident victim, told of being robbed of his billfold, money and credit cards as he lay unconscious on Rollins Road in January 1990.

While Hamilton suffered, police said, Ratzke made charges on his credit cards.

But it wasn't until April 27, when Ratzke and a man charged as his accomplice, George P. Goodman, confronted Snook, that Ratzke's fate would be decided.

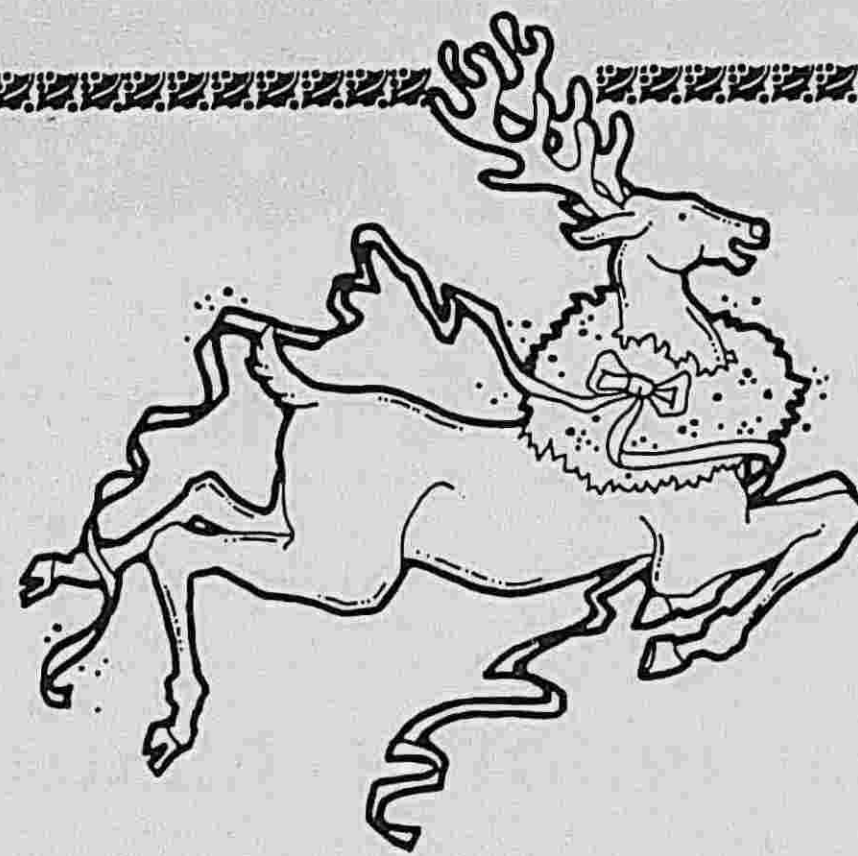

According to police, Ratzke and Goodman kidnapped Snook from a car wash because they wanted to take his 1984 Porsche.

At a secluded spot along Rollins Rd., Snook was forced from his own car and shot. As he stumbled down the dark road, he was run down by the Porsche and left to die.

Ratzke was later arrested for the crime when his girlfriend reported him to CrimeStoppers and collected a $1,000 reward.

Goodman, 28, a transient Round Lake Beach native, is scheduled to start trial Jan. 6. Ratzke continues to place the blame on Goodman, whom he claims played the major role in Snook's murder.

In pronouncing sentence, Starck said Ratzke showed no remorse for his crime except when he was interviewed by television news. At last week's trial, Ratzke apologized for the murder of Snook and for the sorrow he brought to Snook's family.

Christmas Wishes

With child-like innocence, the Christian world turns these days on Yuletide wishes that in many cases are impossible to fulfill. But in expressing hopes for the future, we are sustained and challenged to carry on, each in our own way, seeking a better tomorrow. It is in this spirit, that we offer our Christmas wish list for you, neighbors and friends that may come our way in the weeks and months ahead.

Peace in the world---How fragile the existence of peace and good will toward men. Only 12 months ago America was embroiled in a noble armed conflict to make the world a safer place for all. With unabashed hypocrisy, many Americans today are criticizing our President for his unswerving desire to insure that the world, indeed, embodies the message of the Child in the Manger.

Economic recovery---Give our leaders the courage to make the decisions and take the steps to restore a forward moving commercial machine, one that buttresses an economy satisfying human needs.

Curb gangs and drugs---Pray that the almighty answers our prayers for individual strength that each in his or her own way can stand firm against the ravages of the ever present menace of drugs and growing gang activity.

Preserve open space---Let Lake County leaders reflect on the benefits now and in the future of the open space and a beautiful countryside residents today have inherited. Guide them in the path of wisdom to recognize that our citizens are willing to sacrifice a few pennies a day to acquire public lands that grow more valuable with each passing day.

Lift oppressive taxation---May leaders and citizens join hands to formulate a more equitable system of providing public revenues. Unburden our homes. Isn't it time to consider fuller income tax utilization?

Open the political process---Allow voters a greater voice in how government functions that term limitation would provide. Make it possible for citizen politicians to replace professional politicians.

Rekindle community spirit---Imbue our leaders here and elsewhere with the desire to measure their actions by what's best for all rather than selfish interests and greed. Reaffirm the Golden Rule in inter-personal relationships.

As we share our wishes, let us also share our gifts. Peace on earth, good will toward men.

Letters to the editor are welcome. They should be on topics of general interest, approximately 250 words or less. All letters must be

Viewpoint

'Cutting back' is keeping step with the times

By BILL SCHROEDER

This is the first Christmas in a long time that more isn't going to be better.

A sign of the times, lots of people are "cutting back," the catch word of the '90's. Whether or not the recessionary times have affected income or lifestyle, many Americans simply aren't going to spend as much on Christmas gifting this year as they have in the past. It's the thing to do. Like wearing shorter skirts or pleated pants. Style. Oddly enough, that's one of the valid reasons for the nation's shaky economy.

A grandmother friend declared, "One nice gift and some stocking stuffers. That's it this year." A local businessman, struggling to pay his bills, lamented, "Business is off. I'm having trouble getting into the Christmas spirit." And he sells a product essential for life, seemingly recession proof. But it's not because people simply are "cutting back."

Binge living of the '80's is history. New homes are going to be down-sized, the building moguls say. Lord knows that we are warned a thousand times a day to eat simpler food. Business attire is becoming more casual, only the manufacturers keep hiking the prices of what used to be considered inexpensive, casual apparel. Was it my imagination or were live Christmas trees less expensive this year? The boom in video rentals is proof that home entertainment is more popular. Heavens, family values even are in vogue again. The times truly must be "back to the future" in so many ways.

So don't despair if there are less packages under the tree this year and your Christmas stocking isn't bulging like it used to. You're household is in tune with the times. So cut back on the material things and enjoy the Yuletide more. A good idea would be to direct the excess to someone in need.

Merry Christmas!

KEEP TRYING---Armand Partipilo is an exponent of the "keep trying" school of writing. After 87 rejection slips, Partipilo has a publisher for his first novel "Wrong Man," a story of terrorism, love and betrayal. The saucy world traveler has taken up writing seriously now that he has settled down with his family at Pistakee Bay. Partipilo headed up overseas sales for Burgess Vibrocrafters when it was the world's leader in manufacture of vibrator tools. Later, he operated his own importing and exporting firm in Grayslake. Now that he's been published, manuscripts written as a hobby are going to get a second look.

*****

HAIL THE CHIEF---Susan L. Gravenhorst isn't timid about voicing her support for one of the University of Illinois' proudest traditions, Chief Illiniwek. The Lake Forest resident, who is a member of the U of I board of trustees, spoke out for the Chief in the latest issue of Illinois Quarterly.

"We certainly do not wish to demean any cultural or ethnic group. For this reason, the Chief presents himself with the utmost dignity and reserve, and we respond to him with love and respect," Gravenhorst wrote. "We hold this Native American heritage in the highest regard." Thousands of alumni and Illini friends, I'm sure, agree with Gravenhorst's opinion that opponents of the Chief fail to recognize that this positive symbol wins respect and admiration for Native Americans.

Right on, Sue. Let's hope the fuss about whether Chief Illiniwek is an appropriate symbol for the university subsides. But as long as controversy simmers, it's nice to know that there are persons of influence like Gravenhorst who back the Chief 110 percent.

LONG FOR SPACE---Circuit Judge William Block and his wife, Nancy, a College of Lake County trustee, long for the days when they could look out their front window on Port Clinton Rd. and see tassels of corn and farm fields instead of rooftops sprouting from subdivisions.

The Blocks are among the dwindling number of Vernon Township residents who still live in unincorporated territory. Judge Block shared a formula for dealing with pressures of the bench and encroaching suburbia. He and his wife pack their bags and head for Upper Michigan where Mrs. Block was reared. There aren't any traffic jams at 7:30 a.m. or 5:30 p.m. in the UP where the air is clean and clear, and the silence only is broken by an occasional snowmobile or when the neighbor's four wheel drive vehicle backfires.

Sports ignores economy as our nation struggles

by JOHN S. MATIJEVICH

When the late and great George Herman "Babe" Ruth earned a salary playing for the New York Yankees greater than President Herbert Hoover, he was quoted as saying, "I had a better year than him." The more things change, the more they stay the same.

After Thanksgiving, President George Bush staged a "Christmas shopping scene" where he was seen on national TV shelling out a few bucks on a Christmas present. It was his way of exhorting the American public "to get out there and spend." Bush just isn't the actor that his predecessor was...the public relations stunt didn't go over too well.

Who am I to give Bush any advice. But, Mr. President, why don't you try something like this. Tell the American public to throw away every part of the day's newspapers except the sports pages. Tell them to watch sports programs on TV...no news, no variety programs, no movies, nothing else, just sports. And the same for radio.

What good will this do? Well, there's a recession, right? Even President Bush admits that, finally, after 12 or so months of "everything's just fine" talk. Most economists say that the only way out of a recession is to bolster consumer confidence, to get Americans to spend. But, President Bush, you don't nudge them to spend by faking a TV shopping spree. And you don't do much for the guy who has lost his job, is broke, and on food stamps and you tell him that he can boost the economy by buying a new house and a car.

No...there's a better way...tell everyone to keep their eyes, and ears, and minds on sports...that's all. After all, if recessions can end by stimulating consumer confidence and spending, then the whole thing is a matter of perception, right?

So, what do you find on the sports pages? There's no recession! I just read last week that the average salary of baseball players is about $850,000 a year. I watched three golfers split almost $500,000 for two days work in a "skins" game...only to be outdone the following week when a pro golfer won a cool $1 million for his weekend's toil. The basketball professionals make the baseball players look like paupers...and there's football, and tennis, and on and on. In sports, they sky's the limit.

No one in sports seems to be worrying about a recession. They must know something the rest of us, including the president, don't know. After all, these aren't Babe Ruths getting those humongous salaries. Two years in a row, the Cubs doled out millions for pitchers with losing records. These are long-term contracts that are being handed out, so the sports moguls are taking a no-recession attitude. They're counting on the American public to keep spending so that these kinds of salaries can continue. After all, we're paying for those high salaries, aren't we?

Sure, it's perception. Maybe it won't get consumers to buy cars and houses. But, think of all of the sneakers that blow hot air that will move in the marketplace; and at $100 a pair, that helps the economy. And all of those fancy sports jackets and shirts and hats and "do-dads." If we can just make certain that all of those products were "made in the U.S.A.," we'll really start the economy rolling again, won't we?

Well, maybe my idea won't work after all. It might dramatize, though, the key problem of the future in our great country. It is the widening gap between those on top of the economic scale and those on the bottom...and the squeezing of everyone in the middle. The "haves" have more, and the more they have adds to the growing list of have-nots. It is the reverse of the America that we have been, and it is time that we put our priorities back on track. (Continued on next page)

Double dippers or hobbyists?

DOUBLE DIPPERS

Two incumbent County Board members running for state representative could end up being double dippers. They have also filed for their old jobs.

Andrea Moore, chairman of the Forest Preserve Dist., is running for state representative in the new 61st Dist. Her opponent is incumbent Libertyville Twp. Supv. Ralph Swank. In the County Board race she faces Libertyville Trustee John Schulien and unknown Gladys Roper.

Roberta "Bobbie" O'Reilly is a candidate for state representative in the new 51st Dist. That's where retired Buffalo Grove Mayor Verna Clayton is the endorsed candidate. Well-heeled Peter Fitzgerald of Palatine is the other player. To win back her old job O'Reilly must out-do Vernon Hills Trustee Pam Newton, Vernon Twp. trustee Florence Emiling and Davida Terry of Prairie View.

Why do these two ambitious women want to wear two hats—one in Waukegan and the other in far-away Springfield? First, in their eight years of holding office they now regard politics as more than a hobby.

Second, to cover themselves. If they lose one job, they wind up with the other. That's called covering all bases. They may tell us their last-minute decision to run for the County Board is based on the partisan indecision of the remap commission over lines for the new state representative districts. Those won't be known until Jan. 6, if then.

Sure, they can always withdraw. But wearing two hats has lots of appeal. To justify staying in both races they can use the time-worn adage of "bringing the resources of Springfield to Waukegan."

But no matter which way it's sliced, that's still double dipping.

NO HAT TRICKS

It will be pins and needles this week for candidates looking for position on the March primary ballot. Candidates rushed to file nomination papers the first day, Dec. 9.

There was a traffic jam at the court house. Everyone in line when the County Clerk's office opened was regarded as filing simultaneously. There also was a rush to be the last to file on Dec. 16.

On Thursday the names of candidates filing first for each office will be put into a hat, and drawn for first and subsequent places on the ballot. It's been done this way for years, said elections administrator Mary Ellen Durkin. Since this is the Christmas season, the hat could be a stocking. "We like to keep the spirit of the season," Durkin said.

Those filing after the first day get the remaining positions.

"There are some candidates who deliberately file late," said political analyst Fred Bigham. "They feel there is a certain advantage to being last on the ballot. They're also the ones who usually lose."

Sports

Consumers will regain confidence when they see that leaders and policies are genuinely concerned about their needs and their interests.

So, if you want to change the channel from sports to news, go ahead...I'm warning you, though, it's mostly bad news and won't get your spirits up for the holiday season.

By the way, I don't think Bobby Bonilla had that good of a year...either.

Merry Christmas to all!
Editor's note: John Matijevich is a long-time Lake County state representative. He writes regularly for Lakeland Newspapers on politics and public issues.

lyn Sindles in 1989. Gus is trying again.

In Barrington Dist. 17 there are no less than five candidates. Endorsed by the GOP is former banker Mark H. Beaubien Jr. of Barrington Hills. He will challenge incumbent C. Richard Anderson, Cuba Twp. Supv. Wayne Miller, former Ela Twp. fire commissioner Donald Potter of Deer Park and 1990 county clerk candidate Paul Chung of Barrington. Political observers wonder why Chung, who was endorsed by the party two years ago, wasn't good enough for the GOP this time.

In Dist. 19 (Lake Zurich) incumbent Ela Twp. Supv. Robert Grever will have a repeat of the 1990 election. It was a nasty one, filled with anonymous fliers and hundreds of signs. Filing to get back his old job is Bruce Hansen of Deer Park. The Democratic candidate is Eugene Toussant.

Getting a free ride in Dist. 20 is Buffalo Grove Plan Commissioner Arlene Genell. Even if the Democrats come up with a candidate, Genell has the endorsement of the GOP party, which is tantamount to victory.

In Dist. 21, which includes Lincolnshire and Riverwoods, the endorsed candidate is Lincolnshire Trustee Lee Forres. His opponent is open spacer Martha Marks.

GLADYS WHO?

Libertyville dentist John Schulien feels his eight years on the village board is long enough. He's running for the County Board in the new 13th Dist.

Some people take affront to his candidacy. They say his dental practice in Vernon Hills and North Chicago leaves little time for County Board business.

Challenging him because no one else would is Gladys Roper. She's been around for something like 35 years, but not in the political limelight.

She ran for office in 1963. It was for the job of what was then assistant township supervisor. Benjamin Stickles held the post. Guy Grinnell was supervisor. Roper lost by 200 votes.

Roper is an open-spacer. She served a stint as president of the Friends of the Forest Preserve Dist. Other than that, she's relatively unknown.

Roper says her candidacy wasn't prompted F.T. "Mike" Graham of Libertyville, the man who is Mr. Open Space.

How will she get elected? That's the same question being asked by others.

OVERHEARD/SEEN

**** GURNEE MILLS—

Tour bus traffic is adding to this year's hustle and bustle at what is billed as the world's largest indoor off-price/discount shopping mall. There is a person assigned to handling these folks from Wisconsin, Iowa and all over Illinois. In past years many of these buses would have gone to the Kenosha Outlet Center just over the state line. That mall has taken a 50 percent hit this year, said one tour bus operator. **** LIBERTYVILLE—

County Board member Carol Calabresa held an open house for Republican committeemen earlier this month. They came, they ate, they drank and they talked. One gracious guest brought a potted Norwegian pine tree. "It's because you're the remaining hope for open space we have today," she said of Carol's re-election bid in the new 15th Dist.

**** GLENVIEW—We might see some good, old-fashioned, high-level debates heading into the March primary. Kathleen Sullivan, the pro-lifer who wants to defeat pro-choice Congressman John Porter in the 10th Dist., will challenge him to four or five debates. Will he accept? Yes, to, maybe, one or two. That's the Democratic way, today.

**** WAUCONDA—Democratic candidate for the County Board in Dist. 5 (Wauconda, Fox Lake, etc.) is Beth Guzendam, a rural Wauconda owner of a horse boarding stable. A disenchanted Republican, she ran for the same job two years ago on the same ticket. She keeps good political company. Her frequent companion is Wauconda Trustee Lee Hampel. The tall, bearded Hampel is best known for his Abe Lincoln look-alike presentations, stovepipe hat and all.

**** FOX LAKE—Druggist Ed Fojtik is recovering in Milwaukee's St. Luke's hospital from triple by-pass heart surgery. He was taken there last weekend from a doctor's office where he went for a checkup. Fojtik is a candidate for the County Board in Dist. 5.

Letters to the Editor

Campaign inconsistencies

Editor:

I'm writing in response to Ms. Beyer's letter and Mr. Soulak's piece concerning the "Red Hot" candy hearts that Republican precinct committeemen received from Republican candidate Nancy Masterson prior to their recent endorsement meeting. Ms. Beyer, in what appears to be genuine outrage, calls the candy hearts a "bribe." She states that she was "insulted that any candidate running for an office to represent the people would stoop to this type of tactic to gain endorsement." I as a tax-paying and voting citizen am insulted and outraged to see that Republicans have nothing better to do than squabble over petty issues when there are real problems to be addressed.

How is it that an endorsement committee has time to be upset over this candy when they should be doing everything they can to assure the voters of Lake County that they are doing everything in their power to distance themselves from Republican David Duke? The real priority of Lake County Republicans is to endorse candidates for office that will not give aid and comfort to David Duke.

Mr. Soulak's remarks about Ms. Masterson being a team player and loyal Republican are misplaced. I'm not sure that a candidate really needs the endorsement of a committee that is following "traditional Republican values," especially if they are the same "traditional Republican values" that David Duke is constantly espousing. Finally, if Mr. Soulak is actually distressed about the loyalty of Ms. Masterson and if Ms. Beyer is indeed interested in the voter's needs, why are they supporting a candidate who does not live in the district he is to represent? The law may allow Mr. Salvi to move in after being elected but he and the committee should know that there are more than a few voters who would like their candidates to live in the district before the election.

Not for private mail

Editor:

For sometime there has been talk about turning the United States Postal Service over to a private firm. I cannot think of a bigger mistake the United States government could make nor a more costly one to the taxpayers.

At present a person can move from here to there, then somewhere else. If all moves are made within one year per move (three years total), one first class stamp is all that is needed for each first class article mailed.

The only thing needed by any U.S. Government Agency is the sender's name and return address and the words "Official Business and/or the sender's signature." Do you think a private concern would do this? I don't. Also, the blind get free mailing privileges.

With the exception of official holidays, your mail is picked up and delivered six days a week, regardless of the heat or cold, rain or snow.

If you live on a city route your mail is delivered to your door, not thrown out of a car window. If you live on a mounted or rural route, your mail is placed in a mailbox at the edge of the road, not thrown out of a car window.

Do you think the members of our armed forces would get or be able to send their mail in time of peace or war regardless of where they are as they do now by a private concern?

Alvin H. Sherwood
Round Lake

What about pensions?

Editor:

Term limitation is fine and I am for it, but what about the pension plans they have? When will they start to receive it? At the end of their term or will the government keep putting in till they turn 65 or 67—for the next 10 or 20 years?

We could have more government retirees than voter's which means more taxes, cutting Social Security and Medicare services and high tax assessments.

William Mayer
Antioch

Crane above 'rewarding'

Editor:

I'm sure Joe Soulak did not mean to infer that Congressman Phil Crane does well in Lake County because the precinct committeemen are "rewarded" with a freebie dinner. Any voter who has followed or is even remotely familiar with Phil Crane knows he is a man of the people!

Congressman Crane spends as many hours as he can after doing his job in Washington talking to the voters in this district. Too bad that all of our state and federal elected officials can't say the same!

Call or write Phil Crane with a problem and you will receive help and/or an answer without fail.

This area's Precinct Committeemen are not (as some might believe was inferred by Mr. Soulak) standing in line with a sandwich in our hands saying, "Oh boy, Phil, this is great. I'll work for you." We are a bit more intelligent and politically astute than that! Precinct committeemen do a lot of hard, time-consuming work without one penny of reward or pay. Congressman Crane is not rewarding us. He is thanking us for everyone in the district not just himself. Oh, by the way, why limit the term of an excellent congressman to keep the do nothings from being re-elected? Why not just vote those other rascals out?

Geuzendam files for county board seat

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

By demonstrating her spirit and showing off her experience, Wauconda Township resident Elizabeth Geuzendam hopes to gain a seat on the Lake County Board.

In her second bid for the post, the 31-year-old who fell short of election by 4,000 votes in 1990 hopes to nurture values as a member of the board. The people in Wauconda Township, she said, "are down to earth and willing to make ethical choices based on their beliefs rather than financial gain."

Intending to mount a campaign keeping a conservative eye on development, Geuzendam is running unopposed on the Democratic ticket. Her energy and optimism have led the grassroots organizer and activist to become a commissioner of the Lake County Regional Plan Commission; a founding member of Balanced Interaction of Man and Environment, an information network; member of the Lake County Land Conservation Committee; and active in developing Wauconda's Stream and Wetland Ordinance.

She lent her voice during the county's 2010 transportation hearings as well as to the Messiah Lutheran Church senior choir in Wauconda. Geuzendam was also a leading opponent of plans proposed for development of the Roney farm on the outskirts of Wauconda.

A Lake County resident for more than 20 years, Geuzendam hails from Chicago's Hyde Park neighborhood. She abhors procrastination and guides her life by a writing by Dr. Robert H. Schuller: "When faced with a mountain, I will not quit! I will keep on striving until I climb over, find a pass through, tunnel underneath, or simply stay and turn the mountain into a gold mine with God's help."

An advocate of working from the gut, if elected, Geuzendam hopes to help improve access to the 1,200 acre Lakewood Forest Preserve. "There's no way to get there. That's a travesty. We have the obligation to make this a place that's suitable for us and our children in the next 50 years while undergoing development," she said.

On her platform, she said, "We have a very large choice as to what is going to happen to us in Western Lake County. We have to work with and guide people who are going to come in here and make long term decisions for the residents."

To accomplish her goal, Geuzendam advocates increasing collaboration between the county and municipalities where land use is concerned. County zoning, she said, is trying to show municipalities where to allow growth in an effort to control density.

"What they're trying to show is that this is kind of the same position that DuPage was in 20 years ago. Municipalities are not keeping their zoning plans tight and developers are taking advantage of their generosity," she said. Consequently, growth is occurring at a faster rate than anticipated, causing overcrowding of school as well as traffic congestion.

"If all the comprehensive plans for each village are built out, we'll soon have 1 million people in this county. Projections from the Northeastern Plan Commission are 640,000 by 2010," she said. The 1990 census showed a population of 516,000.

Included in her philosophical commitments is a desire to return the two party system to the district. "I don't owe anybody any favors. I've worked for what I have as far as name recognition, and I've worked very hard to keep everything above board and not get backed into any corners. When you put yourself up to the limelight, somebody's going to find something. As far as I know, there aren't any skeletons," she said.

The boys soccer coach said, "I have enough understanding of how the county works to be an asset as a County Board member. Frankly, I don't know that any of the republican candidates are qualified."

Geuzendam is running in District 5 against Republicans Brad Muse of McHenry; Sandy Sundberg and Edward Fojtik, both of Ingleside; and Howard Bieze of Round Lake.

Couple works out of home building Victorian homes

by DOUG DUSIK
Lakeland Newspapers

John and Mary Taylor's lives revolve around the home.

It's where they conduct their business — building homes — and raise their family. It's a Victorian home, just like the ones they specialize in creating for their customers.

"John's been in the carpentry business since he's been in high school," Mary says. "He cares about his quality and not the price. That's the kind of people he builds for."

Since 1986, this Grayslake couple has built about 30 Victorian-style homes in Grayslake, Barrington, Green Oaks, Libertyville and Northbrook.

"They look a little old-fashioned but they're modern," Mary says. "Either you like them or you don't."

Between five and seven customers a year like the Victorian style enough to contract Jonell Builders — the Taylor's company — to build the $120,000 to $400,000 homes.

"I guess it's the coziness and the hominess of it," says Mary, who acts as the company's bookkeeper.

John says all work is referred by word-of-mouth. Heating, plumbing, electrical, concrete and roofing work is contracted out.

Jonell Builders does the carpentry. Architectural plans come from home planner magazines, John says.

"That's what a lot of builders are going to now. They use plans out of home planners magazines and then if they want, they go to an architect," he says.

The advantage is that home plans may be viewed without a $1,000 visit to an architect's office.

For John, the advantage of working his own business is the diversity.

"There are no two days that are the same," he says. "There's a lot of management — decision making. Every house is built one at a time. It's unique. That is exciting to me."

The hardest part of his job is the weather. "And it can be physically tiring at times, but it's all worth it," John says.

Adds Mary, "There are advantages and disadvantages because we are both working together so closely night and day. But it's worth it."

She says she likes being able to raise her family at her company's residence and also, having a say in the business.

Crystal Creations preserves integrity of glass art

by MARY GIAMPALO

With a flair for humor, enchantment, and genius, artist, Gary Jones, wears the serious brow of a proud perfectionist. His serious intent has accumulated almost 24 years experience in the unique skill of glassblowing and lampwork. This experience goes way beyond his art collection that's displayed at his gift shop located at 24321 W. Rte. 134 in Round Lake (since 1985).

The other side to Jones is his knowledge and skill in the many-faceted field of scientific glass. This knowledge combined with his artistic abilities gives him the creative edge in both fields. He's been asked to design a variety of challenging pieces, including top secret parts for oil refineries and items that are patented for new products. He designs pieces for the medical and pharmaceutical fields as well. Jones simply shrugs his shoulders, "Sometimes I'm not even allowed to know what a piece is going to be used for."

Requests abound in Jones' business and only a few are turned down. For instance, a woman came into the store and asked to have her husband's ashes put into an hourglass. Jones could only say, "No, I don't do that sort of thing." In another instance, a man asked to have a cracked windshield repaired. "I'm not a miracle worker," says Jones. Custom-made orders range from favorite pets to favorite pastimes. One in particular was a wedding-cake top of two scuba divers for a couple getting married underwater.

When browsing through Crystal Creations gift shop, you become hypnotized in a wonderland of intricate glass and Austrian crystal, sometimes mounted on pewter, amethyst, quartz, and other popular minerals. Unicorns, ships, animals of all sorts, clowns, motorcycles, wizards, and an array of items too plentiful to mention light up the store. These are truly collectors items. A wide variety of wedding-cake tops are available as a lasting keepsake of that special day. The excitement of color, sparkle, and elegance just has to be seen in the magical atmosphere of Jones' Crystal Creations.

Crystal

An important characteristic underlying Jones' art treasures is the quality crystal pyrex glass he uses; the same used in Corning Cookware. This glass is known for its durability and is easily repaired. The glass is also tempered in specially designed kilns to fire out the stress caused by the glassblowing process. Pyrex glass and tempering are just some of the hallmarks of Jones' technique—setting him apart from the amateurs.

Far from amateur, Jones was trained by three elite glass-masters who have had experience ranging from 25 to 53 years. Jones says, "One master was so tough that after I worked long hard days and thought I did great, he threw all my work in the garbage. I was devastated! But now I thank him for instilling in me discipline and respect for the art. Today my skill is respected by my peers in the American Glassblower's Society." Jones continues his relationship with the glass-master of 53 years, brainstorming and sharing secrets of the craft.

The tradition of "glass-master secrets" goes back to the 13th century when the Venetians took over the lost European glass art. Venetian rulers gave strict rules to protect the secrets of the craft under pain of death. Nonetheless, the secrets of technique and tooling spread back to Europe and then to America. Today, many of the secrets are still well guarded. These secrets are carefully traded and shared only among the most respected in the field of glass. Gary Jones is one of them.

Make financial life more secure in '92

by NICK J. BROWN

How to broadly prepare finances for 1992 and beyond is the subject of this article.

By the time the smell of turkey from Thanksgiving is in the air, clients, colleagues and friends are already planning for 1992, but the standard comment top let's schedule a meeting is, "Let's do it after the first of the year".

Are we out of the recession, in the recession, or just starting a second recession after a mini dip?

In any of these events, you can start making plans for 1992 to be more successful, profitable and healthier for your family. The areas of planning fall into five distinct areas, the five areas of concern:

1. Health insurance
Verify health insurance your employer is providing you and check on the insurance that is covering your parents and children nearing adulthood. Most group medical plans provide a cut off of age 19 or 23 for most children. If your child is currently attending college and wither graduates or leaves school, they could be unprotected. I see health insurance as being one of the most potential dangers to financial security during the balance of the 90's and beyond.

This way to wealth

2. Retirement plan

During recessions many retirement plans have either been cut back or eliminated by employers. Employees should now verify what retirement options are available through your employer. You should take advantage of any 401K plans and defer up to the maximum contribution that you are allowed under these plans.

The shortage in retirement income not provided by employer plans you will have to make up for individually. You must be trying to save as much as possible to provide for your retirement. The annual savings rate for all Americans is about 4 percent of gross wages. A good target is about 10 percent.

3. Salary continuation

During recessions overtime has been cut back, bonuses eliminated or reduced and many jobs eliminated. It is during this time you should check with your employer and review your personal plans to make sure that in the event of your partial or total disability, there is some disability-income coverage provided.

The more guarantees the better.

If your employer is not providing this type of coverage, then it is wise for you to contact your insurance agent and buy it individually. If living during a recession is difficult with reduced salaries, imagine what it would be in the event of a disability if your salary were stopped all together.

4. College education

Recession or boom, the costs of college educations keep rising. The plans to attend school for many students have been hampered by the loss of jobs of their mother and or father and other economic re- ing changes where needed you can make 1992 and beyond more secure for you and the people you love.

Editor's note:

Nick J. Brown is president of The Planning Group, Glenview, a financial planning and consulting firm that counsels individuals and businesses in all 50 states. Your questions are invited by writing This Way To Wealth in care of this paper or 2203B Lakeside Dr., Bannockburn, IL 60015.

Take steps to improve personal finance

The new year is a good time to straighten out your personal money matters. Barbara Dahl, University of Illinois Extension consumer and family economics educator, offers these steps to safer, saner personal finance.

Follow these steps and you'll see results in minutes, Dahl said.

- Check your savings habits. If you feel you save too little and spend too much, adopt the "pay yourself first" approach. Think of your savings plan as another bill, just like the electric bill or mortgage, and make that savings deposit first every month.

"If you think you can't afford to save, it's probable that you can't afford not to," Dahl said. "Don't worry if you only put away $5 or $10 a week to begin with. Even small amounts will grow if you put them into a savings account where the interest is compounded."

- Call your life insurance agent. Take the time to think about your insurance needs. Your life changes over the years, and chances are, your insurance needs have changed also. If you have a whole life policy, find out what the face value is now. Ask who you named as the beneficiary, in case you've forgotten.

At the employee-benefit office, ask whether you can buy additional term insurance at low group rates. And when you've finished reviewing your life insurance, think about brushing up on your other insurance policies as well.

- Check your withholding. If you got a big income tax refund last year, start off this year right by filing a new Form W-4 at work. Ask the employee benefits counselor for a copy of the "Personal Allowances Worksheet." This simple seven-step worksheet allows you to estimate your tax liability and determine how many withholding allowances you should claim.

- Check your Social Security records. While 99 percent of Social Security payments are properly credited, yours might be among the other 1 percent.

Start by calling 1-800-234-5772. Order the form "Request For Earnings And Benefit Estimate Statement." All you need to complete the form is your social security number, your current annual income, last year's income and a postage stamp.

Within three weeks, you should receive an estimate of the benefits you can expect at retirement and other important information.

- Check your credit history. Since credit bureaus respond to 1.5 million credit checks every day, the odds are that mistakes will be made.

Start by looking in the Yellow Pages of your telephone book under "Credit Bureaus" or "Credit Reporting Agencies". Any bank or department store credit office can also tell you what credit bureaus operate locally. Expect to pay $5 to $15 per report.

However, there will be no charge if you have been refused credit in the last 30 days because of your credit report. You may also be asked to put your request in a letter.

Once you receive the report, look it over carefully. If you find errors, ask the credit bureau to check them. If you still have a dispute after the recheck, add a 100-word statement to your credit history that tells your side of the story.

- Get your records in order. This is easier than you might think, Dahl said. You'll need 16 file folders. Label one of the following headings on each folder: banking, car, contributions, credit, employment/business, home, insurance, investments, medical, personal, real estate, receipts, retirement, taxes, warranties and everything else. Now, distribute your personal papers in the appropriate folder.

- Learn more about your personal plan. Start by asking the following questions:

What will I get if I work until I am age 65?
What would my spouse or dependents get if I died?
Can I borrow or withdraw money from the plan while I am working?

- Review your will. If you don't have a will, get one now. If you do have a will, read it. That means you'll have to locate it first. Then, check to see who you designated as the executor and the beneficiaries. Decide if any changes are needed.

- Balance your checkbook. Do it now and resolve to keep it balanced.

- Create an emergency file. Start a file of information that you and others would need in the event of an emergency. Some of the information you might want to record includes notes about a safe deposit box, bank accounts, investments, deeds, mortgages, insurance policies, wills, and pension and retirement plans.

For most of these items, you'll want to note where it is and who to contact.

For a $2 donation individuals will receive a chance entry ticket for a drawing on Jan. 15. Entry tickets are on sale, call (708)360-0770 for information.

The money raised will go directly to recruit, screen and train new volunteer Big Brothers and Big Sisters to be matched One-To-One® with children waiting. These matches are professionally supervised to reduce the risks of school dropout, drug use, teen pregnancy and juvenile delinquency. Big Brothers and Big Sisters provide companionship, guidance and understanding for children who need additional adult attention to grow up to be self-sufficient, self-confident people.

The children, ages 15-18, live primarily in single-parent homes throughout Lake County. Some of the youth needing the special One-To-One® mentorship are teenage girls who are single mothers or high risk candidates for teen pregnancy. Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lake County expanded its early intervention services to include children referred by the juvenile court in order to reduce repeat delinquency behavior.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters does not charge fees. The children need the community's support. Help make the holidays brighter for these children—buy chance tickets and put them in your favorite someone's stocking or on top of holiday gifts. Give a gift that gives twice.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lake County is a United Way member agency.

Protect toddlers' safety during holiday season

Christmas holidays are a joyous, festive time for family and friends, but it's also a time for a few extra precautions if you have toddlers or small children at home.

Accidents are the number one hazard to children under five, and most accidents occur in the home. Happily, experts tell us 90 percent of these accidents are easy to prevent.

Here are some Christmas precautions to ensure that the holidays are safe as well as fun for the youngsters.

Place your Christmas tree out of busy areas in your home. The safest location is in a room corner as close to the walls as possible. Be sure it rests on a very firm stand.

Keep all the wiring in the back of the tree. Do not have extension cords visible and reachable in front of the tree.

Especially while children are young, trim the tree with unbreakable decorations. If you use breakable ornaments that are a family tradition, put them on the highest branches.

Don't put the children's toys directly under the tree. Put the toys off to the side so they can play with them with no danger of toppling the tree. Between play sessions, leave the toys near, but never under, the tree.

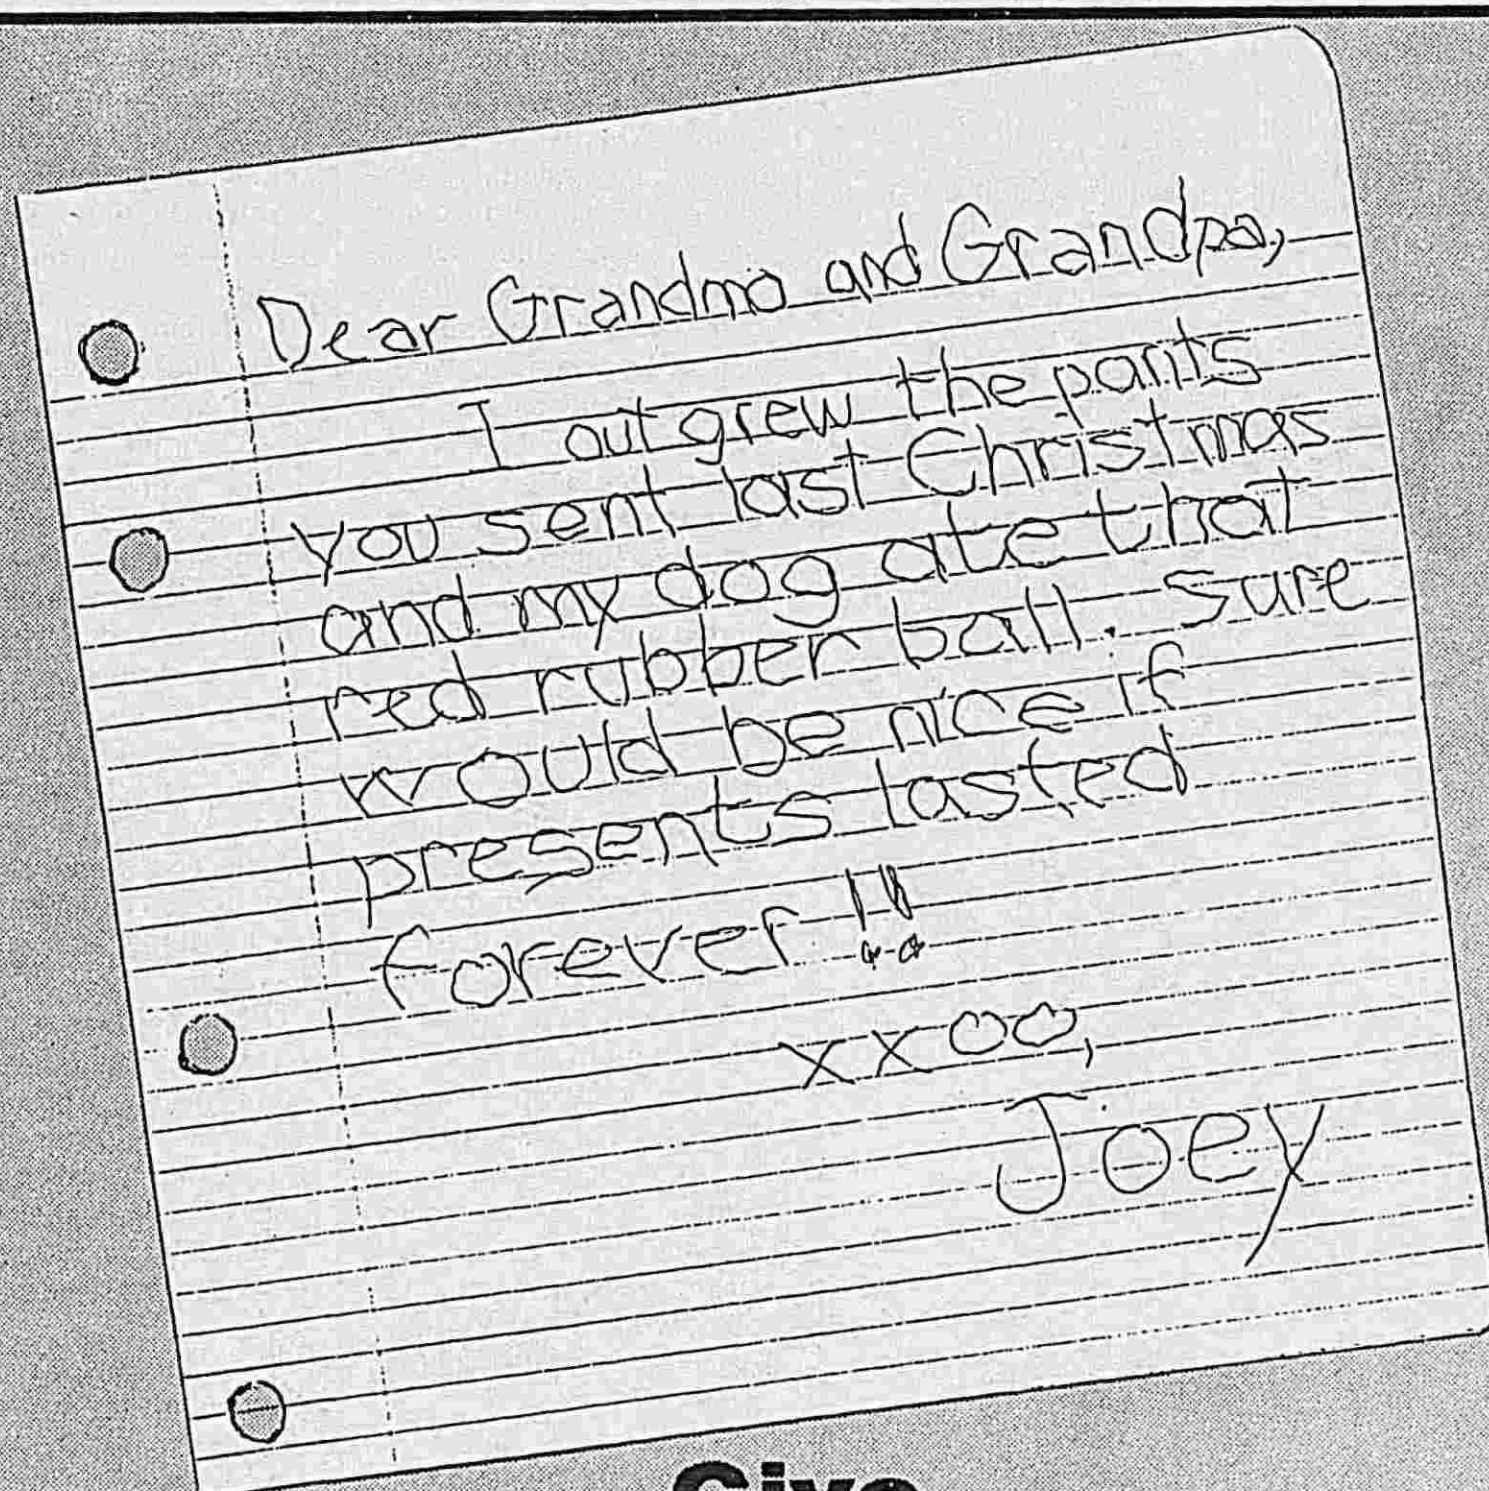

With the hustle of Christmas, wrapping and unwrapping packages, plus guests coming and going, be extra careful about storing household items. For example, put the scissors away immediately after using them.

Don't leave empty cups, glasses or matches on low tables.

Remember to keep all those child-proof locks on your kitchen and bathroom cabinets securely closed.

Remember, too, that the extra holiday excitement means small children need naps and quiet times even more. A warm bath and nap relaxes toddlers and restores their energy.

And, you'll have a few moments to relax and check out your safety precautions.

Did you know?

The origin and meaning of Christmas symbols:

Apples—because of the presence of animals in the stable when Christ was born, juicy apple cores are given to the animals on Christmas in some countries. Some legends state that it was an apple tree, rather than a cherry tree from which the Virgin Mary picked fruit.

Bells—two thousand years before Christ was born, bells were used in the Orient for joyful as well as sad occasions. Since Christ was born they have been used in many countries to announce his birthday. They are used to announce the hour of 12 on Christmas Eve in Spain. In some places bells are run as the crech is lighted. In others, bells chime as the "Golden Star" procession is moving.

Carrots—are left by the chimney or tree for the horse used by Saint Nicholas, or the reindeer used by Santa Claus.

Greeting cards—were first published in England in 1844 by Joseph Cundall and thus originated one of the most widely used customs today.

Ivy—the female, while the holly is considered the male. The one which was brought into the house first indicated which sex would rule the house that year.

Horn—"Blowing the Yule" is a Danish custom. Just as the sun is rising on Christmas the trumpeters play four hymns, one for each corner of the earth, beginning with "A Mighty Fortress is Our God."

Fertility assured by a kiss under the mistletoe

by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ
Lakeland Newspapers

The wood of Christ's cross, the "burning bush" of Moses and the dart which killed the Norse god Balder were all, according to legend, members of the mistletoe family. Myth says to be kissed under its boughs is a magical insurance of fertility.

By ancient custom, the properties of magical, mystical mistletoe are at their most powerful at Christmas time.

Considered sacred in pre-Christian Europe, the Druid priests used it in sacrifices.

If cut for magical purposes, a knife or sickle of sacred gold must be used. When cutting, the utmost care was taken to prevent it from touching the ground, which not only destroyed the plant's god-given virtues but brought calamity. Otherwise it brought happiness, safety and good fortune.

The Celts believed it had miraculous healing powers, especially when it grew on an oak, considered a sacred tree because of its rarity. It was thought to be an antidote for poisons, a talisman for protecting a house from ghosts, a fertility drug for humans and animals, and was credited with curing diseases.

It was believed the semi-parasitical evergreen had magical properties because of its manner of growth. It never takes root in the ground but grows on the trunks of other trees.

There are two reasons for the custom of taking liberties under a sprig of mistletoe. The first is the fertility symbolism. To kiss a woman under mistletoe was originally a magical way to ensure she would bear children, while the plant itself could be used as an aphrodisiac.

The mistletoe endows a man with the freedom to kiss any woman. This is derived from the general amnesty allowed as long as this plant lay on the altar of the local church or cathedral, a practice recorded at York as recently as the 18th century.

The second reason is connected with the all-healing, protective, good-luck reputation of mistletoe. In pagan times, the plant was considered to have the power to reduce epileptic spasms. It was also given to sheep and cows after they had given birth.

More mystically, it was known as a protection against witchcraft, the devil and other kinds of evil; could enable one to see ghosts and make them speak; and could open locks and lead to treasure. In the northern countries of Europe, it was a plant of peace.

In Japan, mistletoe was considered sacred for its healing properties. In West Africa during the early 1800s, it was carried by warriors as a preservative against wounds.

In Worcestershire the bough, decorated with nuts, apples and ribbons at Christmas, might be fixed on a cord and pulley so that the woman who was kissed could pull down a berry which she would then throw over her left shoulder. The berries of mistletoe are poisonous.

Its application as a Christmas ritual comes from Britain. Allegedly, under the influence of mistletoe, "a Holy kiss of pardon and redemption" was initiated by a priest and passed through the congregation.

Like so many tales of yore, the belief of kissing under mistletoe is considered to have as many sources as there are old wives.

However, perhaps the most plausible comes from Norse mythology. It is written that one of God's arrows made of mistletoe struck down Balder, son of Frigga. Crying tears of white berries, she brought her son to back to life and vowed to kiss anyone who rested beneath the plant.

In the Victorian language of flowers, the message of the mistletoe was "I surmount difficulties."

Yule log symbol of good cheer

Yule was a winter festival in England long before Christmas was known. A yule log symbolizes the root of the tree of Thor. The log is preferably a fruit-bearing tree such as olive, almond, acorn, hickory, apple or other fruit. The oldest and youngest members of the group, typifying the old year and the new, were the nominal bearers of the log which actually was born by a group of servants.

The Yule Log should by all rights be lighted with a faggot saved from the log of the of the year before. It is a symbol of good cheer and good fortune.

Stuff holiday stockings with today's newest electronics

The biggest question around holiday time is not "What's for dinner?" but "What do I put in the holiday stockings?" Don't worry, here are a number of one-stop stocking stuffer ideas. For instance, if camcorders or VCRs are the hot items in your house this year, give a supply of blank videocassettes to go with them. Maybe the kids are going back to school after a long winter break. Don't forget that floppy disks are a welcome and useful addition to any dorm room. Plus, everybody loves to take pictures around holiday time, so a few rolls of film or an inexpensive camera make perfect gifts as well.

Whether they're film, cameras, audiocassettes, videocassettes or computer floppy disks, these accessories not only fit under the tree or in the holiday stocking, they fit your budget as well.

Finding a great gift for the kids is never an easy task. This year, try one-time use cameras. They're ready to go as soon as the wrapping paper is opened. Also, they're perfect for children because they're compact, extremely easy to use and come already loaded with a roll of film. Best of all, there's no assembly required. In fact, all you have to do is decide what pictures to take and press the button.

These cameras make great gifts for vacationers. Not only is the price right, but these unique and durable cameras let you take pictures on the ski slopes, the beach, family rafting trips, or just about anywhere.

When holiday time comes around, so do family and friends. You want to be sure you have the right film to capture both "people" pictures and the vivid colors of the holiday season. And you can't go wrong with a few rolls of film.

Blank audiocassettes make the perfect gift to accompany a popular compact or album. You can even buy new 100-minute blank audiocassettes, making it easy and efficient to record CDs.

Whether recording caroling friends, the annual family snowball fight or even "The Grinch Who Stole Christmas," and "It's A Wonderful Life," holiday classics deserve nothing but the best. A few high-quality blank videocassettes are all you need to capture these special occasions or add to the video library. If you want the best, give your friends new double coated blank videocassettes offering significant improvements in both audio and video reproduction.

Expert tips for buying holiday gifts

As the holiday countdown begins, so does the common dilemma of finding an appropriate gift of quality and value.

The design experts offer the following suggestions for selecting gifts that will be a surefire hit this holiday season:

- Make a mental note to scan loved one's homes to avoid purchasing duplicate items—returning gifts is a nuisance for everyone.
- If selecting a gift for the recipient's home, refrain from buying an item that reflects your taste. Make sure the item fits their lifestyle and decor.
- Look for value-added products that have warranties or special consumer services. Gifts with lifetime guarantees make them gifts with a lasting impression.

• Avoid buying this year's fad item. Instead, select a gift that can be useful for years to come.

• Double check the return policy. A seven-day return policy may not be feasible for relatives on the opposite coast.

• A gift that is sentimental can be particularly special around the holiday time.

• A multi-purpose gift is a real standout. Look for something that will be used often, not tucked away in a closet or drawer.

• Don't assume that a high-priced item is a well-made item. Invest in quality craftsmanship and the gift will be much more appreciated—and utilized more often, too.

• When purchasing accessories, stick with the classics. The heritage of precision craftsmanship makes it an accessory that will be cherished by anyone on your holiday list.

If you concentrate your efforts on items of quality and value, your gifts will always be appreciated and will last a lifetime.

Avoid fads—give gift of learning

Sometimes the box keeps a child's attention longer than the gift inside. Or a child asks for months for a toy that's been advertised, only to leave it forgotten by New Year's Day. These scenarios are a part of most families' holidays, but they don't have to be.

Parents want kids to have fun, but more and more they also want gifts that foster a love of learning. Here are some quick questions to ask before making your gift selection for that special child. Following simple guidelines can help make the gift you choose more meaningful. Five questions to ask

Will it keep a child's attention after the holiday season? No one wants to give a gift that will end up in the back of a closet. So why buy an "in" gift when it will fade "out" in a month? One fad gift in a holiday season is certainly enough for any child. Make sure your gift is practical and useful. Test the product yourself. Does it keep your interest? If not, it probably won't hold a child's attention either.

Is the gift well made? By investing in a good quality product you can prevent spending money on replacements or repairs. Check with friends or relatives about their satisfaction.

with a product's quality and durability.

Is it a good value? Shopping around helps. Remember to check the quality of each item. The lowest price is not necessarily worth it, so compare carefully with similar products.

Is it appropriate for the child's age and interests? Look for a fun gift that will stimulate interest and creativity. Make sure the item is not designed for a younger child, or is not too advanced.

Will it help your child learn? Expanding a child's knowledge can be a great benefit in gift giving. Educational toys and books promote learning and creativity and are entertaining. Before buying, look to product reviewers for advice.

Experts suggest one gift that's a little different. A book is a rare gift that teaches as it entertains. Reading fosters the active use of a child's imagination and a child who has an encyclopedia, a dictionary and lots of other reading materials around the home seems to do better in school than someone who doesn't have these resources.

Choose lasting gift of jewelry

When you want a gift whose beauty lasts and lasts, when you want that gift to express your feelings, there is no gift more associated with love, sentiment, quality and lasting beauty than a gift of fine jewelry.

Created from minerals and precious metals from deep within the earth's crust, millions of years old, jewelry is able to become a family heirloom for generations to come. It is portable enough to travel across the country, around the world, and into space, and it is always pleasing, adorning, and makes a personal statement to and about the wearer.

Jewelry is a visual as well as a sensual experience. By wearing precious metals such as gold, platinum and sterling silver, and gemstones of every hue, you feel better, are better understood, and improve your own self-image. Each time you put on a piece of fine jewelry, there is a renewed sense of enjoyment.

Whether you want to buy a gift of jewelry for a loved one or for yourself, for more information about fine jewelry, see a local jeweler whom you know and trust. He or she will be able to show you a wide variety of styles based upon your needs, budget and preferences.

In addition to offering a wide selection, a jeweler can explain the many factors that determine the value and, subsequently, the price placed on an item. Not only is the weight of the precious metal and size, number and type of gemstones considered, but the intricacy of the design determines the type of workmanship necessary.

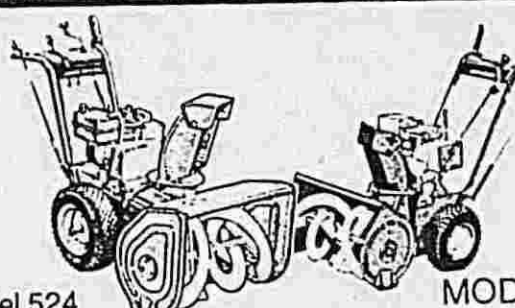

Your jeweler can also show you how to build a "jewelry wardrobe" to suit your personal sense of style. And, when your jewelry pieces need servicing, such as a professional cleaning, new clasps or pearl restringing, your jeweler will be there to help you maintain the beauty and life of your pieces.

Increase exercise to relieve holiday stress

The holiday season is upon us and with it the excitement, fun and, all too often, the tension of seasonal demands. It seems that there are never enough hours in the day to share the holiday spirit with friends and family, or to fit in our regular workouts. Between shopping malls, parties, office functions and community events, it's easy to leave our commitment to exercise behind in the wake of the season's jubilation.

In making your personal choices this season, The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports suggests that you consider the increasing evidence in support of exercise as a means of reducing stress and promoting relaxation. The holidays may just be a time when you need exercise the most.

Compared to the physical benefits of exercise, such as reduced body fat and increased flexibility, strength and endurance, the psychological rewards of exercise are elusive. Regular exercisers report a variety of benefits, such as feeling better, improved sleep patterns and less tension, depression and anxiety. However, these testimonies are often difficult to quantify and document. Research is just now catching up to the many personal claims that physical activity and fitness reduce stress.

When you feel stressed, you are reacting to the world around you and your body prepares itself to deal with the cause. Your heart rate and blood pressure increase, muscles tighten and you may get headaches and back pain. Related emotional tensions such as irritability, anger and depression often follow.

Exactly how physical activity relieves stress is not completely understood. But, consider the responses to regular exercise—reduced heart rate and blood pressure, increased flexibility and reduced muscle tension. The benefits are exactly the reverse of some of the common stress responses.

One theory supporting the role of activity in reducing stress is that exercise burns up the hormones produced by the body when it's under stress. Possibly, the person who exercises is better able to resist these stress byproducts. Or perhaps, stressful situations do not represent as much harm to the athletic person as they do to the sedentary.

The extra energy boost from a well designed workout can add more vigor to your holiday season, giving you the stamina you need to get through your action-packed days.

Runners have long reported the "runner's high" feeling they get from their workouts. This has been tied to the production of endorphins, the body's natural pain killers produced during longterm endurance exercise which cause an overall feeling of well-being.

Whether you are interested in the short-term effects of a workout in reducing your daily anxiety, or the longterm effects of training to make your body better able to counter stress before it builds up, keeping up your exercise during the holidays will help.

However, don't let your workout become a source of stress. There is just so much you can do and if you're not enjoying your exercise program, it's time for a change. Don't be afraid to relax this season and have fun. Remember, there are many ways to be active, including dancing, skating and skiing, and this just may be the time of year to take a break from your regular routine and try something new. Whatever your choice, have a healthy holiday season.

History of the dreidle

Hanukkah commemorates the victory of the Maccabees over the Syrians in 167 B.C.E. When the Greeks began to persecute the Jews, forcing them to eat pork and destroying their temples, the inhabitants of Modi'in, a village northwest of Jerusalem, revolted and defeated the invaders. They then fled into the Judean desert and surrounding hills, where they continued to wage attacks on the Syrians. Twenty-five years later, they finally won independence for all of Judea.

With the Menorah (the nine-branched candelabra), the most famous symbol of Hanukkah is the dreidle, a four-sided top with Hebrew letter on each side. Before the Maccabees' revolt, practicing Judaism was illegal and brought the death penalty. Even reading the Torah was punishable by execution. When Jews gathered in secret to study the Torah they always had a dreidle with them. If they heard soldiers approaching they would quickly hide the scriptures and pretend to be playing with the dreidle. So when playing with a dreidle, remember that it once had the power to save lives!

A good activity for children at Hanukkah time is to make their own dreidles. They can be made from clay, wood, or papier maché and elaborately decorated and painted. The young family members can give them as thank you gifts for the Hanukkah presents they receive and it will give them a quiet occupation while the feast is being prepared in the kitchen.

23 district races for County Board

by JOSEPH SOULAK
Lakeland Newspapers

Races in all 23 County Board districts next March will be contested. In two cases it will be a Democrat-Republican matchup with the winner to be decided next November.

In nine races there will be Republican-only candidates. "There are Democratic challengers in 14 of the other races," said county Democratic Party Chairman Betty Ann Moore of Libertyville. "This shows the two-party system is still alive in Lake County."

Races and the candidates, by district:

1. Jim Fields (inc.), Antioch; and Judy Martini, Richmond, both Republicans.

2. Robert Neal, (inc.) Wadsworth; and Eleanor Rostron (inc.), Waukegan, both Republicans; and Democrats Sam Payne, Zion; Mike Hewitt, Waukegan Twp. road commissioner; and David Tannenbaum, Waukegan, retired.

3. Suzi Schmidt, (inc.), Lake Villa; Jim Mitchell, Lindenhurst; and Barbara Oilschlager, all Republicans; and Democrat Julie Edwards of Round Lake Heights, an insurance company executive.

4. Jim LaBell (inc.) of Zion; and Lynn Mallery, Beach Park, both Republicans.

5. Howard Bieze, Wauconda; Brad Muse, Grant Twp.; Edward Fojtik, Fox Lake and Sander Sundburg, Ingleside, all Republicans; and Democrat Beth Geuzendam, Wauconda.

6. Larry Leafblad (inc.) Highland Lake; Don Newby, Round Lake Park; William Beadle, Round Lake Beach, all Republicans; and Democrat Robert Boness, Round Lake Beach.

7. Robert Depke (inc.) of Warren Twp. and Warren Behr, Gurnee, both Republicans.

8. Bertha Ogrin (inc.), Democrat; and Jim Stanczak, Charles Willms and Charles Isley, all of Waukegan and all Republicans.

9. Deborah Hallas, (inc.) of Waukegan; a Democrat; and Paul Peterson and Jeff Jeffers, both of Waukegan and both Republicans.

10. Colin McRae (inc.) and Don Johnson, both of Mundelein and both Republicans.

11. Raymond LeCroix, Grayslake; and Richard Raftis, Ron Kurpiers and Andrew Milowski, all of Wildwood and all Republicans.

12. Angelo Kyle (inc.) and John Balen, both of Waukegan and both Democrats.

13. Andrea Moore (inc.), John

Schulien and Gladys Roper, Republicans of Libertyville; and Democrat Jack Cervac of Libertyville.

14. Audrey Nixon (inc.), North Chicago, Democrat.

15. Carol Calabrese (inc.), Jim Dolan (inc.) and F. T. "Mike" Graham, all of Libertyville and all Republicans.

16. Donald Strenger, (inc.) Lake Forest, Republican.

17. Richard Anderson (inc.) Mark Beaubian and Wayne Miller of Barrington plus Donald Potter of Deer Park, all Republicans; and Peter Suk Jr. of Wauconda, Democrat.

18. Roberta "O'Reilly" (inc.), Long Grove; Pam Newton, Vernon Hills; Florence Emling, Hawthorn Woods; Davida Terry, Prairie View; and Michael Sullivan, Lake Zurich.

19. Robert Grever (inc.) of Lake Zurich and Bruce Hansen of Deer Park, both Republicans; and Democrat Eugene Toussant, Lake Zurich.

20. Arlene Genell, Buffalo Grove, Republican; and attorney David Stolman, Buffalo Grove, Democrat.

21. Lee Forres, Lincolnshire; and Martha Marks, Riverwoods, both Republicans.

22. Myron Siegel, Deerfield, Republican; and university professor Carol Spielman, Highland Park, Democrat.

23. Robert Buhai (inc.) of Highland Park, Democrat.

For county and state offices on the ballot, the Democrats will caucus in April.

On Dec. 16, the final day for filing, the Democrats also slated Gerald Statz of Lake Bluff for state's attorney to run against incumbent Republican Michael Waller and Jack Piller of Highland Park for recorder of deeds. Piller will challenge Frank Nustra, the oldest and longest-serving Republican in the courthouse with more than 36 years of public service.

Although the Republicans have slated candidates for state representative and state senator, the Democrats will not do this until the Jan. 6 deadline for redistricting the state. Barring this there will be what is known as a "bedsheet" ballot in which all candidates for state office will run at large. The last time there was such a ballot was in 1964 when Adlai Stevenson was the gubernatorial candidate.

"We're out to show that the Democrats have not been redistricted out of Lake County because that party thinks this is Republican territory," Moore said. The number of Democratic candidates on the ballot is the most in Moore's four years as party chairman.

McKoski files petitions for circuit court judge

On Dec. 9, Circuit Judge Raymond J. McKoski filed nomination petitions with the State Board of Elections in Springfield for one of the newly created circuit court judgeships for Lake County.

Judge McKoski, endorsed by the Lake County Republican Central Committee, has filed for the judicial race designated as Resident Lake County Circuit Judge Seat "A".

McKoski was appointed by the Senate Supreme Court to fill the post until the general election next year. In order to maintain his seat he must be nominated in the 1992 March primary and elected in the November general election.

Prior to his appointment as a Circuit Judge, McKoski served as an Assoc. Judge for six years. As an Assoc. Judge he presided over all types of civil and criminal cases. Judge McKoski graduated from DePaul Univ. College of Law in 1972 with highest honors.

According to McKoski

the petition process is important because it gives the candidate an opportunity to learn the people's concerns about the judicial system.

"I have been to the neighborhoods, shopping centers and train stations collecting signatures and I have listened and I have learned," McKoski stated.

Judge McKoski resides in Lindenhurst with his wife and daughter.

Cuddly Christmas creatures brought to life

A look of wonderment is Ed Waibel's reward for practicing his Yuletide magic.

"Just to see the looks on the little kids' faces — it's like the entire world is right there. They eat their candy canes and they don't want to go home. They think they're at the North Pole."

The rapture is found in the cuddly creatures Waibel brings to life in scenes reminiscent of the elaborate department store displays of Christmases past.

Sugar plums are nice, but ice-skating bears, elves, Wile E. Coyote riding a red pony — these are the visions Waibel has dancing in his head.

Waibel, an electrician by trade, began animating cartoon and fantasy characters for his own home some years ago.

"Every year, we'd add something," Waibel said. "Over the years, everybody was asking me to make stuff for them, but I didn't have the time."

Then, six or seven years ago, he decided to make the time.

"I went all over looking for animated stuff, but all I saw was professionally made stuff, and I said, 'I can make them for a lot less — there's got to be an easier way.'"

Waibel doesn't make the actual figures; he finds them in toy stores.

His handiwork involves building a base from treated wood, installing electric gear motors and putting stainless steel rods in the figures. The motors move the rods, and the figures come to life. The final touch is a weatherproof coating, so the display can be used indoors or outdoors.

"There was a lot of trial and error and a lot of homework," Waibel said. "I have a lot of fun doing it, and the kids love it."

One place to see Waibel's artistry — and perhaps get an animated scene of your own — is at Poem Lighting Co., the business Waibel and Dan Hanrahan started a little over a year ago at 1244 Allanson Rd. in Mundelein (in the industrial park).

"We have a window front — people drive by with their kids, and we have people stop in all the time."

Waibel's home at 121 W. Hawthorne in Mundelein another showplace for the animated displays.

Waibel now makes a few scenes each Christmas season, and they can be purchased by the general public. He currently has five displays on hand.

"If anybody wants something, they can come buy one of these or put in an order for next year. Every year we change them. Next year, we might go with Walt Disney characters — it gives people variety. They can even bring back one they have and trade for another one."

"These are one-of-a-kind things. They're beautiful to see, yet they're affordable."

Elaborate animated window scenes in Chicago stores are a thing of the past, Waibel said.

Latilla will shine!

Latilla the Hon

It doesn't take much to make me laugh. Oprah did a program about male bonding. It is the biggest thing for men in the ninety's. So what do you want to know about male bonding? I guess some women have inquiring minds still and they truly do want to know? I didn't need enlightenment on this subject.

Twenty years ago I couldn't understand my husband's male bonding needs with the men who frequented off duty hours at the Club Bermadoo while I was stuck home on that isolated island base in Bermuda with a tiny baby with colic but now I understand my husband's male bonding issues. Men need men. No matter where your man hangs out ladies be grateful they are at least with other guys from all walks of life, occupations and intelligence levels.

Mr. Hon has his group of friends. Everyone of them married and hard working and in 15 years I have never heard of one divorce or about any of the fellows having gone astray. Of course I only see the wives of all these men once a year when all the guys make reservations in December at Ted's Log Cabin to wine and dine together as a group. Every year I see Lori and tell her how great her blonde hair looks and every time as we leave to go home I ask Hon if he thinks I would look cuter with blonde hair instead of the long flowing red tresses he is accustomed to? Every time I see Lori I have the urge to ask her if she has more fun? I never ask though. I went blonde once in college when my mother was nowhere near. I was only blonde for 15 minutes because once I washed the hair dye took out, my hair color was "slime green" not "tawny platinum!"

Once a year us gals of The Our Gang Club get a night out with our hunks. It is the biggest event of our entire year. Last year I couldn't go as a "femme fatale" but I will this year and no one will recognize me! They will all think Hon went astray for sure when he shows up with me on his arm! It makes a big difference when one of us gals dropped 70 pounds since the last annual "Let's take the little wifey to dinner night!" Perhaps this year cute Lori will go home asking Jimbo if she should switch from blonde to red tresses?

The best part will be that soon one night this year I won't have to cook or clean up plates full of moose meat, bear or other unidentifiable meat pieces. All I know is I am going to be wine and dined and that I sure am going to shine this Christmas season time!—LAURA CLEGHORN

Santa's work weaves magic, mystery for curious kids

Interview

There's nothing like coming down a chimney to a plate of chocolate chip cookies and candy canes for reindeer, according to Santa Claus.

After all, he explained, "Candy canes make reindeer fly... and a little magic."

Lakehurst Mall's premier Santa this year is a 41-year-old electrical engineer with a boyish spirit, a warm heart, a love for children and a lot of imagination.

Robert F. Daniels is spreading holiday spirit behind the bearded visage of Santa Claus, a position that fills a long-time dream.

"Wanting to be Santa is something that has been in the back of my mind for a long time," Daniels said. "This is the first year I've really gotten into it."

Though a 15-minute video and a short seminar had Daniels fully trained and geared for the holiday career, his imagination and creativity add all the magic to the lore of Santa Claus for hundreds of children who flock to see him with lists in hand.

After spending a half hour dressing in a hot suit, Santa must remember not to belly-laugh too loud and scare children, never promise to bring a gift to a child, always say 'I'll try,' and remember to pop a breath mint before taking a seat in Santa's chair.

"The hardest part are the tykes with wet diapers," he ho-ho'd. "And I've had a few of those. The kids I like the most are the ones that ask Santa questions."

"Where is your sleigh and reindeer?" one asked.

With a rosy-cheeked smile Santa tells curious children, "You only use the cargo sleigh and the team of eight reindeer on the big night. You use a compact size during the year."

"Where's Rudolph?" another inquires.

"Rudolph is back at the North Pole pumping iron to get ready to lead the sleigh. You see, the other eight, Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, Vixen, Comet, Cupid, Donner and Blitzen, are all built like Arnold Schwarzenegger. Rudolph is built more like Bill Murray, but they all get along with each other."

Slow Drains?

You'll never have a slow running, or clogged drain again!

The secret? Clean drains don't run slow. The "slows", or periodic clogs, are signals that a thick layer of "gook" is choking your pipes. This gook coats the entire length of your pipe. Gook other products run here from sink to sewer, or septic. Conventional drain openers cannot remove this build up. Even a small tunnel through the waste lets them flow through the pipe, leaving the gook behind!

Now, with just a few minutes each month, you can easily clean out your pipes like new...and KEEP them clean with Plumb Clean®. It clings, and penetrates deep into the gook. No other product has the Plumb Clean® formula. That is what allows it to liquefy even years of build up. Plumb Clean® will clean the entire length of your pipes. It will make your drains run like new, when used as directed. This penetrating action is so revolutionary, Plumb Clean® is money-back guaranteed! Don't be confused. Plumb Clean® is the brand with the guarantee right on the label.

Save Money. A 1 lb. jar of Plumb Clean® holds up to 41 drain treatments. It costs only about 35¢ per treatment.

Independent laboratory studies show Plumb Clean® more effectively breaks down organic waste than all other products tested. So, if your drains have the "slows", get safe, guaranteed Plumb Clean® today! Available only at:

Admission to the 7 p.m. concert, which will be a shortened version geared especially for families bringing young children, is $4 for adults, $3 for members and seniors, $2 for children five to 15 and free for children four and under. At 8:30 p.m., admission will be $6 for adults, $4 for members, $3 for seniors and children, and free for children four and under. Tickets are available at the door and there is no reserved seating. Call (708)367-0707 for more information.

Singer, writer, actor, Jim Post will present a special musical Christmas program entitled: "The Heart of Christmas," at the Woodstock Opera House at 6 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 22. This family-oriented holiday entertainment about a young boy's plan to uplift the spirits of his Galena neighbors at Christmastime will be performed by a five-person cast and enhanced by a slide show and hand-drawn illustrations. Tickets are $10 each and are on sale at the Woodstock Opera House ticket office. Call (815)338-5300 for more information.

Beginning in January, Victory Memorial Hospital, 1324 N. Sheridan Rd., Waukegan, will hold "A New Baby Is Coming" sibling class the third Saturday of each month from 9 to 10 a.m. For additional information and to register call (708)360-3000, ext. 5218.

Drivers arrested with a BAC higher

Drivers can use the designated driver system, call a cab, or have a friend drive them home if they had too much to drink.

The Walbels welcome visitors of all ages. Brett Tatosian here with Mom, Judie takes a closer look at Santa who is visible from the outside through the front window. This particular Santa has a past, however, he graced the holiday window of Marshall Fields in 1954.

Cuddly

"Downtown, all the stores used to have them. Now, all you have is Marshall Field's and Carson's. Then there's the time and money. You need a professional display person and you need an electrician. And, parts are expensive. Those big displays cost thousands and thousands of dollars. Nobody can afford that now."

Waibel didn't make one of his most prized animated characters. At a garage sale, he found a Santa Claus that had been part of a 1950 Marshall Field's display. The find was authenticated by Waibel's father-in-law, Joe Banach, who was an electrician for the department store.

The mechanical Santa needed a little work but now it's as good as new.

"It's a piece of Chicago history. Believe me, it was a rare find."

Poem Lighting was founded as a manufacturer of portable emergency lighting with commercial, industrial and community applications and has expanded from one to 50 models during its brief existence.

Hanrahan said there's no limit to the scope of Poem's custom-made products — including Christmas decorations that lend both beauty and security.

"We're really moving in several directions," Hanrahan said. "We tried Christmas decorations to see if they were well-received, and they have been."

Waibel and his wife Rita and Hanrahan and his wife Betty are all involved in the business. And, they've included their kids too.

"What we've tried to do is make it a family business," Hanrahan said. "Each of our children is currently involved in the business to learn from the ground up."

Balloons top party trend

In the '50s we twisted the night away. In the '60s we walked in space. The '70s gave us Saturday night fever. As the '80s drew to a close, the harmonic convergence and

'You can't have a party without balloons. About 99 percent of all weddings now have balloon decorations.'

—Cindy Irwin

new age awareness brought us in touch with the universe.

The animated '80s have given way to the playful '90s. Party trends are following suit as the 30-something crowd reaches back to childhood.

Some say giving a wind-up toy or anything that reminds a young middle-ager of their youth will make the party a hit. Toys act as ice breakers, taking the edge off situations where people aren't familiar with each other.

Hats work the same way. Like toys, they may be used as place cards, props, or favors to encourage participation.

Parties where guests arrive in character to solve a murder have been a trend for several years. For a little variation, touch back to something that happened in the '60s or late '50s. Staging a television show, such as Gilligan's Island, and giving guests a prop, like sunglasses or an appropriate hat, helps create a lively atmosphere for home parties.

The main trend is toward balloons, said Cindy Irwin, owner of Balloons To You in Fox Lake. A studied balloon and silk flower artist, Irwin is also a party planner. Nowadays, she said, "you can't have a party without balloons."

Not even a wedding, she said. "About 99 percent of all weddings now have balloon decorations. Big weddings are back again. People are spending more and more money on weddings. Home parties, too, are really big. It's unusual."

Recently, a customer ordered $182 worth of decorations for a home party, Irwin said. The smallest of three recent orders was $75 for decorations in a home, she said.

Irwin suggested sprucing up traditional Christmas decorations with air walker balloons which travel around the room, or tree, from an anchored point.

Over the Hill parties, Irwin's most popular decoration, include bottles of prune juice, antacids, hemorrhoid medication, and other related products she uses to anchor black balloons bearing the party's theme. If desired, she will order the grim reaper to appear for the occasion.

Formal New Year's parties are also afoot and steadily growing in popularity whether at a home or elsewhere. "Black tie for New Year's is fantastic," Irwin said. "That's a BIG trend, and all black and white balloons. It's very elegant," she said.

If black and white or royal blue and white isn't your style, the colors of the day are teal green and rose, Irwin said.—by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ

Addams Family' TV fare

The newest version of Charles Addams' popular ghoulish group, "The Addams Family" is sparked with a cast of fine actors who obviously had fun playing the famous macabre characters created by the legendary "New Yorker" cartoonist.

Angelica Huston, one of today's top actresses, is a "dead" ringer for Morticia and she brings a sort of chilling sex appeal to the role compared to Carolyn Jones' stoic television portrayal.

Raul Julia is acceptable as Pappa Addams, but we much preferred John Astin's lascivious leering in the TV role.

Christopher Lloyd makes a masked appearance as Uncle Festus to add to the formidable list of weirdoes. His hysterical personality still comes through his death mask.

There are probably more yaks in the film script, line for line, but somehow they come off more like a stand-up comedians one liners than a cohesive comic storyline.

By the end of the film, because the movie keeps the Addams family on screen by themselves for the bulk of the running time, we found their creepy lifestyle almost normal.

This is where Mr. Addams' original intent, showing how really different his favorite family is by comparing them to your average Joe, is lost by director Barry Sonnenfeld's forced comedy efforts.

In fact there are times, despite the valiant efforts of the top-grade cast, the script goes for the laugh at the expense of the characterizations.

The Addams Family

Despite all this, we have to admit we enjoyed most of the picture but it really wasn't worth the $6.50 admission price. We're giving our ghastly friends 2.5 stars out of five. Don't miss it when it comes out on video.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Teamates unite in common spirit

"Spiel '36 or the Fourth Medal," a production of Victory Gardens Theater in association with Theatre of the First Amendment, uses a heavy hand to flush out a bleak moment in history.

Steve Carter's drama uses as its backdrop the 1936 Olympics, in which Adolph Hitler cowed the U.S. into preventing two Jewish athletes from competing in the Olympics in order to spare potential embarrassment to the German proponent of Aryan supremacy.

It was a race in which black runner Jesse Owens made history by capturing his unprecedented fourth gold medal.

The play is set a few days before the big event. Even though the U.S. team is heavily segregated in their quarters, they manage to break down the barriers and unite in a common spirit.

Nazi Germany is tinderbox, on the brink of World War II Blind ambition and racial prejudice are rampant, to the point where the assistant track coach, played by John Judd, is willing to sell out his team for a crack at personal advancement.

Michael Jerome Johnson gives a solid, sensitive portrayal of Oliver Weymon (the Jesse Owens character), while Michael Shapiro is the pugnacious Willie Herman and Jeffrey Lieber the feisty idealist, Chaim Lux.

Scene from "Spiel '36 or the Fourth Medal"

The problem with "Spiel '36" occurs when didacticism becomes an overriding concern. Instead of letting the play speak for itself, for example, one of the characters dilutes the ending by pointing the finger at the audience and remarking, "You know the rest, and if you don't...you should." Similarly, a discussion over denying blackness versus Jewishness comes off as convoluted.

Still, the play has moments of genuine warmth, such as when the two Jewish teammates reconcile with the black runners and bid them well.

"Spiel '36" is being presented at the University of Chicago Theatre, 1040 W. Harrison, Chicago, through Jan. 5. Ticket information is available at (312)871-3000.—by TOM WITOM.

Looking For That Perfect Beach? Antigua has 365 of them!

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

A beach for every day the year. That's only one of Antigua's (pronounced An-tee-ga) attractions. Year-round perfect weather is needed to enjoy a year's worth of beaches, and Antigua's got that too.

Antigua, still relatively undiscovered by tourists, has much more to offer than her miles of uncrowded white, sandy beaches and ideal weather.

Discovered by Columbus in 1493, Antigua was first settled by the English in 1632. Although an independent of the United Kingdom since 1981, Antigua still remains profoundly English. The polite, and slightly proper, demeanor of the people is more British than the normally boisterous Caribbean Islanders.

This former English colony has done much to preserve and restore the heritage of her colonial past. The only surviving Georgian naval dockyard in the world is located on Antigua. In fact, the exquisite 14 room Admiral's Inn occupies one of the former buildings of this dockyard.

Most of Antigua's 32 hotels are of this smaller variety, and independently owned.

However, if you prefer the all-inclusive "Super-Resorts" of Jamaica, Sandals has recently opened a resort right on one of Antigua's best beaches. And just to show you I don't get all the good trips around here, my partner, Becky, got to check this one out. Her observations are "get there before the rest of the tourists find this place!"

A "must see" is Shirley Heights, overlooking Nelson's Dockyard. This is the place to be for unforgettable sunsets. The local folks also gather here on Sundays for picnics and impromptu reggae concerts.

The cheapest way to get around Antigua is by bus, if you have lots of time and patience, since service is very dependable. Renting a car is a better alternative. Remember, though, driving is on the left. My suggestion is to negotiate a guided tour with a local cab driver. Settle on about $60 for a half day tour of the major sights.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You get to show just how much you've got it together this week. You're heavy into standing under the mistletoe (who can blame you?) as you roll into Christmas. Be nurturing as the week comes to a close. Another mistletoe attack; let another lead you down the trail to bliss.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't put unneeded pressure on yourself as the week begins. Play it low keyed; stay close to the roost. A loved one lets you know how very much they care this Christmas. Both of you may hear sleigh bells for a long time. Take some special time just for you and company this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make a point of calling friends that you don't contact often at the beginning of the week. You make a difference. Get into the flow of the season. Drop anchor Christmas Day. Rest up because you enter a special weekend with a special elf in your life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may be dumbstruck at the cost of this holiday season, or you may be awestruck by a special gift sent to you.

Intimate conversations, brisk walks and tender moments fill the remainder of the week. You vanish into your shell for the weekend ... with whom or for what, we don't know.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Even if you don't dress up as Santa this week, everyone's going to be sure that, with the "HO-HO-HO's" and rosy cheeks, you're certainly playing the role. You enjoy unusual happiness this holiday week. Over the weekend, you are cooing, and on the go (not far from home).

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) You may be rather mysterious to others before the holiday. You reveal yourself and are in full bloom this Christmas. Others are drawn to you; and your magnetic ways zero in on just the right person. Gift giving of all forms occupy you even through the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) With lots of bases to cover, you are the last minute shopper. You really get into the festivities — egg nog here and there (kisses under the mistletoe here and there). You may miss a special person this Christmas until the weekend. Then, Libra can be found beaming all weekend long.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You are likely to be the happiest of all signs right now. Seems like Santa knew what was on your wish list, and be that spiritual or physical, you indulge all week long. You are not to be found this weekend. Playing with your toys again!

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Reach out to another at a distance. Change your plans if that's what you want to do. Your perkier side comes out toward the weekend. You are very happy, and it seems you've made a friend especially happy as well. Your holiday magic appears to be contagious.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) As the week begins, lasso in a special friend and make them your holiday gift. This exchange has your spirits soaring Christmas Day. Boy, do you seem distracted at Christmas dinner. Everyone can ask; you don't have to tell. You work on normalizing all weekend long.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) A special person shoots their Cupid's arrow and hits the bull's eye. Don't worry about explaining why you cancelled all your Christmas Day plans and the next day's plans. The poet in you comes out this weekend.

PISCES (February 19-March 20) The Fish may be swimming everywhere as the week begins (trying to get everything done). A late Christmas Eve, but it's all worth it as you and associates discover. Celebration and intimacy intertwine. The weekend is exclusive and just for ... oh well ... some people have all the luck.

Go 'green' this season when wrapping gifts

Paper. Plastic. Styrofoam packaging. Mass produced gifts. Throw-away wrapping paper. Each year consumers spend 70 percent of their discretionary income in November and December on items that guzzle natural resources.

Packaging is often cited as one of the major contributors to the solid waste dilemma. More than 80 percent of all packaging goes to the landfill, said Barbara Dahl of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in Grayslake.

When choosing gifts or just purchasing products at the grocery store, look for items with minimal or no packaging. Consider wrappings that are consumable, returnable, refillable or reusable; recyclable or made from recycled materials; and that avoid excess use of both paper and plastic.

Though temptation will try to persuade you otherwise for convenience sake, do not let it lead you into buying plastic forks, knives and spoons, cups or plates. While paper plates are a better choice than plastic in the throw-away realm, reducing the amount of garbage produced is even more economical. Using washable plates and utensils saves money, energy and preserves natural habitats though it takes a minute or two longer to clean up.

Where paper is concerned, consider this: to produce one ton of paper requires 261 pounds of lime; 360 pounds of salt cake; 76 pounds of soda ash; 3,688 pounds of wood; 24,000 gallons of water and 28 million BTUs of energy. The process produces 176 pounds of solid wastes, 84 pounds of air pollutants and 36 pounds of water pollutants, according to the New Green Christmas, a book by the Evergreen Alliance.

The answer is: try another way. Instead of buying fancy shiny plastic-coated paper and plastic ribbon, give packages more character by using your imagination.

How about tying electrical gifts with an extension cord? Wrapping sewing gifts with cloth measuring tape and using a pin cushion as a bow? If the gift is for a dog, tie it with a leash. Tie the present with decorative shoelaces. Use hair ribbons. Buckle it with belts.

Wrap it in an old scarf. Put the gift in a handy bucket. Give edibles in a breadbox or lunchbox. Put it in a pillow case. Send it in a Christmas stocking.

Wrap it in handkerchiefs or bandanas. The wrapping itself is a gift.

Decorate a flower pot and put the gift inside. Wrap it in old sheet music. Use kids' drawings or coloring book pages. (Continued on page 36)

Recycling polystyrene foam

Behind the joy of the holiday season lies a dark shadow. It's the mountains of packaging generated on Christmas day.

Tuscarora Plastics wants to do something about it. They are acting as Santa's auxiliary to recycle polystyrene foam packaging at their Antioch plant. The recycling center will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

As the largest manufacturer of polystyrene foam packaging, the recognize the responsibility to ensure its proper disposal that's why they have initiated this recycling program. The foam collected will be reprocessed back into new packaging, closing the recycling loop.

Best present to receive is battling the holiday blues

One of the best "presents" a person could receive during the holiday season is a positive perspective on life. However, the family and social pressures of the season, combined with the colder weather, decreased daylight and general hustle and bustle, can be severely taxing and lead to depression.

People can cope with depression around the holidays and throughout the year by first learning how to identify the symptoms, then taking measures to combat negative feelings.

To help cope with the holiday blues follow these suggestions:

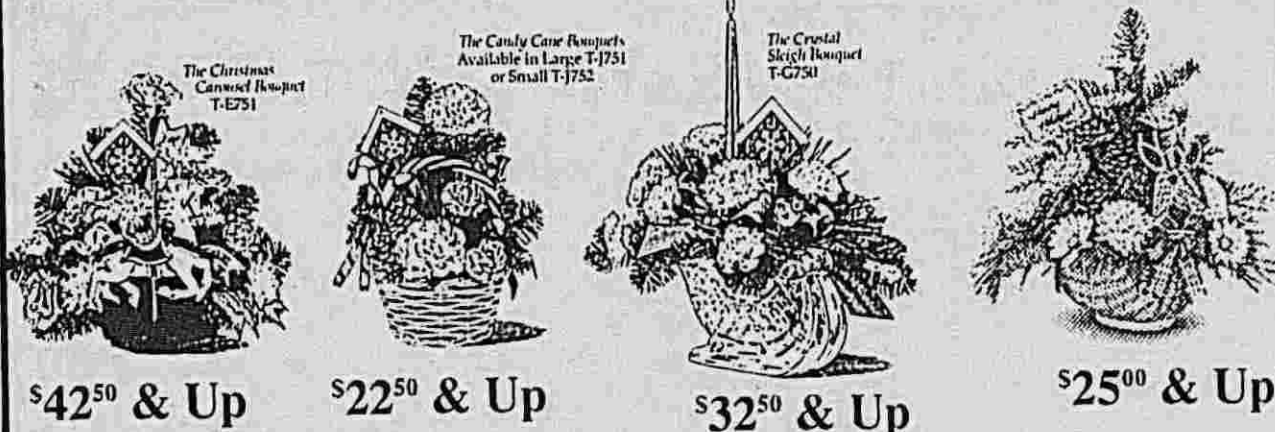

- Identify, then write down, the sources of sadness or stress in your life.
- Take greater control over your feelings by magnifying the good things going on and minimizing the negative aspects.
- Recognize that you need to nurture yourself. Take the time to pamper yourself, even if it just means taking a walk alone.
- Associate with people who will listen and understand your feelings. Holding them in can make things worse.
- Acknowledge that your are feeling down and share those thoughts with others.
- Stay active. Establish an exercise program to help take your mind off negative issues.
- Learn to relax—both your body and your mind.
- Eat healthy foods and limit the intake of sugar, fatty foods and alcohol.
- Let yourself and others be less than perfect. Don't establish high expectations.
- Write down the things in life you can be thankful for.

Fax company, well-known toy distributor join forces

In a thoroughly tongue-in-cheek announcement, FAXNET has heralded cutting a deal with a certain S. Claus & Associates, a major toy distributor.

FAXNET, a New Jersey company, and S. Claus have entered into a venture called Santa Fax.

Santa Fax is a free service available at FAXNET facilities. Children can fax a letter to Santa Claus and return the next day for a personalized response.

Video 21, 4949 W. Grand Ave. in Gurnee (Grand Mills Plaza), just became a FAXNET facility last week. Ann Groat, Video 21 manager, said she's been the only one to use Santa Fax so far, but customers will catch on.

"People will see it more and more and use it more," Groat said.

One of the features of FAXNET, Groat said, is the gift fax, which is sort of like instant mail order. Customers can order gifts through catalogs, pay for them at the FAXNET facility and the order is immediately processed and sent to the gift recipient.

Other FAXNET facilities in the area include Dollar Videos in Libertyville, Round Lake and Antioch, Sweeney's in Wauconda and Lake Zurich and Video Goldmine in Waukegan.

In a brief statement provided through FAXNET, S. Claus said it was time to modernize operations.

"I've been hearing about fax technology for years," Claus said. "In fact, me and the Mrs. thought it might streamline our letter-answering operation and give us a much needed push into the 21st century, but it gets so hectic here we never found the time to evaluate one — until those smart fellas at FAXNET came along, that is."

"All I have to do is check my files to see if a child was good or bad and fax him back a response," Claus continued. "It's quick, easy, foolproof, weatherproof, and we're confident the FAXNET-Santa venture will also prove to be cost-effective." —by GREG MILLER

Go green

Paste old playing cards to a box. Wrap it with the pages of large old calendars. Use leftover wallpaper or wallpaper sample books. Wrap gifts to children in old colored comic book pages. Personalize the wrapping by using selected magazine pages.

Touch a heart by creating a gift tag out of a photo of the recipient. If it's someone you haven't seen for a while, use both your picture and the receiver's. It'll close the gap of years and induce a warm remembrance.

Snowflakes made from cut-out paper and old Christmas cards also double as tags.

Recycled paper reduces pollutants by 50 percent; lowers energy use by 70 percent and water use by 50 percent. It also saves three cubic yards of landfill space for every ton of recycled paper produced.

So far this year, Earth Care Recycled Paper, Inc. in Madison, Wisc. has sold 157,000 pounds of gift wrap and a total of 1.2 million pounds of paper. "That results in a certain amount of savings: environmental, energy, water, landfill space and waste disposal costs," said Jeff Rabuck, public information specialist for the company.

In lieu of giving money for the holidays, Rabuck suggested planting a tree through Save the Rainforest for Life. The organization is a coalition of 15 groups working to stop logging and oil development in the Yasuni National Park, "the most biologically diverse ecological system in Ecuador," Rabuck said of the preserve near the Amazon River.

There's also Trees for Life, (316)263-7294, which encourages children to plant trees. It also distributes packets of material, seeds and instructions. "A $23 donation covers the planting of fruit trees and also helps global reforestation as well as provides food and income to women in Guatemala, and provides technical assistance," Rabuck said. —by DEBRA A. SCHWARTZ

"How do the elves make all those toys?"

He answered, "A couple years ago we sent a couple elves to time-efficiency courses. They've moved Santa into the 20th century. After all Santa was still using an abacus."

Santa added, all girls and boys should remember he's watching them throughout the year. Moms and Dads are his "special helpers" who inform him of their children's behavior.

"Santa's helpers are always on duty," he said. "They report back to him beginning the day after Christmas on how children are behaving."

Santa, who is part elf and part magician, said he shows his presence throughout the year to those who believe. Even in the spring, as the last traces of snow melt away, he's near.

"Sometimes Santa is the magic behind a rainbow," he said. "Children should remember Santa can always see them. Be good and don't fight with your brothers and sisters. As long as you're good, Santa will be good to you." —by ELLEN RUTLIN

Griefnotes

When presidents and national heroes die the nation has elaborate ceremonies to mark their deaths. We mourn heroes because their lives mean something to us, they are important to the morale and life of our nation. When someone we love dies we mourn also. They are important to us and we need to mark their passing with appropriate ceremonies. The ceremonies we have for the deceased help us express our feelings about the person's life and our feelings of loss. Through ceremony we express tribute and say goodbye to those who have been close to us. If we did not take the time to express our feelings at a formal ceremony we would find it more difficult to let go of the past and get on with living.

JULIUS (400-55)
By Landmark Designs, Inc.

The Julius is an informal, contemporary split-level home designed for a lot with a gentle upward slope to the rear. Richly windowed at the back, this home allows its owners to appreciate the changing seasons or take full advantage of a vista.

A two-car garage, with extra space for a workshop, is on the lowest level, along with a storage pad large enough to accommodate a recreational vehicle or boat. Two bedrooms and a bath are on the highest level, over the garage.

Family living space, the master suite and a utility room, are at mid-level, a half-flight up from the garage and a half-flight down from the bedrooms.

One corner of the huge (17 by 29 foot) great room is expanded still further by a bay window, creating a cheerful eating nook. Plants flourish here in the rich, natural light and coffee may well be redundant as an eye-opener in such a setting. The great room is also outfitted with a woodstove on a semi-circular hearth and has sliding glass doors that open onto a wide deck.

The kitchen, which features a work island/snack bar and a small pantry, is only a few steps away from a utility room complete with sink and ironing board.

In the master suite, another unique projection adds space for a sitting area and offers a view to the back and side. Other amenities include a large walk-in closet and private bath.

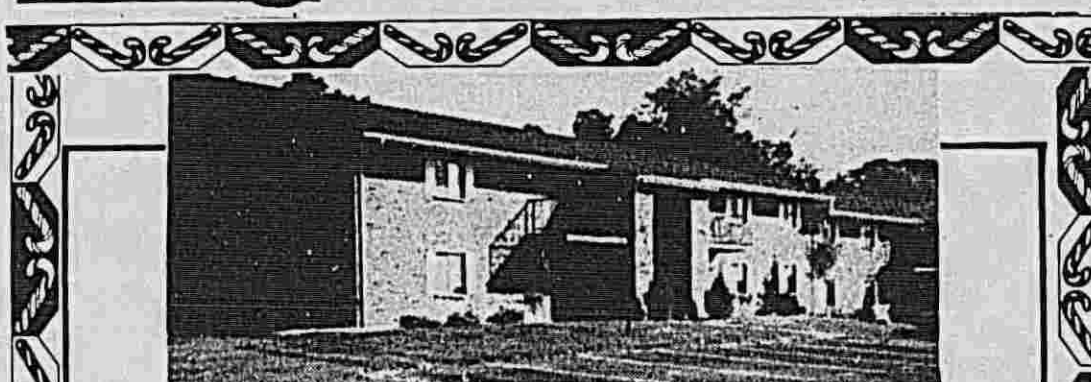

For a study plan of the JULIUS (400-55), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

LAKELAND NEWSPAPER'S 32ND ANNUAL

Ho! Ho! Ho! Do you know who I am?

I have many names:
People picture me in different ways. In England, I am called Father Christmas. French children call me Père Noël. Some Swiss children call me Samichlaus. Dutch children call me Sinterklaas. Hungarian children call me Mikulas. Others call me Saint Nicholas. Children in North America used to call me Kris Kringle or Bellsnickle. Now they call me—Santa Claus!

Children around the world may call me different names, but you can be sure I love them all equally.

Austria—St. Nicholas or Christkind; Belgium—St. Nicholas; Brazil—Papa Noel; Chile—Vicjo Pascuero; China—Lam

Khoong-Khoong or Dun Che Lao Ren.

Costa Rica—Christ Child or Santa Claus; England—Father Christmas; France—Père Noël or le Petit Jesus; Guatemala—Christ Child; Holland—St. Nicholas; Italy—Befana; Japan—Hoteiosho; Mexico—Three Kings; Norway—Julesvenn.

Poland—Star Man; Puerto Rico—Both Santa

Claus and the Wise Men; Russia—Babouschka; Spain—Wise Men; Sweden—Jultomten; Switzerland—Christkind, St. Nicholas, or Father Christmas and Lucy; Syria—Smallest Camel of the Wise Men's caravan.

Selecting gifts for 'kids' from nine to 90

Is there a young person, or someone who is young at heart, on your holiday list? Think about a consumer electronics game for fun and enjoyment in the holiday season.

For the very young, there are the invaluable learning games that teach children the basics. Studies have shown that these games actually make it easier for a child to learn later in life.

For older children, there is a wide array of electronic toys—dolls that talk, teddy bears that tell stories, and other gifts that will be cherished by youngsters.

Video games can be enjoyed by young and old alike. Today, there are more programs than ever before, and more ways to turn a VCR and a color television into an exciting home game center.

Educational games and programs are available in software for personal computers. With the aid of these software systems, children of all ages can learn to animate, play music or even learn to improve their chess game. With a PC and an electronic keyboard, they can compose and hear their own musical scores.

For the young (and old) aspiring cinematographer, what could be better than the gift of a camcorder, for taping their own video programs!

LAKELAND NEWSPAPER'S 32ND ANNUAL

GIFT SPOTTER

Easy to make potpourri for the holiday season

Here is a recipe for a decorative, scented potpourri that blends traditional fragrances of the season. Ingredients and amounts suggested can be adjusted according to your own creative sense.

- 1 quart fresh evergreen needles
- 10-20 small pine cones
- 1 cup whole bay leaves
- 3 cups holly, sassafras, oak, magnolia or orange leaves
- 3 cups dried orange peel
- 1 cup cinnamon sticks
- 1/2 cup whole cloves
- 1/2 cup juniper berries

Tips: Preparing this potpourri affords an opportunity for holiday fun for the entire family. It is easy to make, and many ingredients can be gathered from the backyard or on a family outing to a nearby woods. A two-foot bough will yield several quarts of needles. To remove the needles from a fresh bough, use large scissors and work over a deep, wide-mouthed bowl, cutting the needles off close to the stem. If you allow the branches to dry for a week or so, you can easily strip the needles off by hand.

Holly contributes immeasurably to the color and texture of this Christmas Potpourri. Tree leaves are a desirable addition and can be used fresh or dry. Crush about half of them before mixing and add the rest whole. If you can find them, add whole bayberry leaves for fragrance and texture.

This holiday potpourri makes a thoughtful and original gift. For presentation, fill a basket decorated for the occasion or a Christmas stocking, simply fashioned from red or green net, machine-stitched along the sides and tied at the top with a Christmas ribbon.

Don't forget Santa's reindeer

Here's a delicious treat to leave for Santa's reindeer on Christmas Eve. It's also a delicious treat for you! Eat it with milk and honey. Here's what you do:

Measure and mix together the following:

- 1 cup bran cereal
- 1 cup raw oats
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup shredded coconut
- Mix well.

Or try these Reindeer Crunchies.

Stir two cups of Reindeer Treats with 1/2 cup peanut butter. Mix well. Place the mixture in the refrigerator for 15 minutes, so the ingredients will cool and harden a bit. While waiting, cut apart the pretzels. Each pretzel makes two reindeer antlers. Don't worry if you break a few. Making the antlers takes a little practice.

Remove the mixture from the refrigerator. Shape a spoonful into a ball to look like a reindeer's head. Put raisins where the eyes and nose go. Push the antlers into the top of the head. Keep the reindeer crunchies in the refrigerator until you're ready to eat them. Add a red candy nose to one of the reindeer!

Gift ideas for mom and dad

Mom hates to dust bric-a-brac; Dad doesn't want to wear another tie again—ever. What's a person to do for gifts for Christmas.

Use this list of ideas to give your holiday gifts for your parents some original spark.

- Photo of the family or frames for favorite pictures.
- Mixed assortment of greeting cards.
- Roll of stamps.
- Gift subscription to a publication they would enjoy.
- Hobby gear like golf balls for the golfer, yarn for the knitter or pedometer for the walker.

- Gift certificates for long-distance telephone calls.
- An IOU for a personal service you can perform, like cleaning house or running a day's worth of errands.

For a very special Christmas give someone the WORLD with a travel gift certificate from

Bulldogs still searching for right combinations in loop

Confidence. When shooting a free throw, that's a big factor, whether it is down at the beach on a hot summer's day or in a conference basketball game in December. "It was our best free throw shooting game by far. We work on free throws, but it was just a matter of confidence," Grayslake Coach Greg Groth said after a 62-54 win at Grant.

The Rams benefited from 24-for-30 free throws, led by 16-for-19 by Derek Moran. Moran, a senior, scored 20 points and three other Rams scored in double figures. The Rams improved to 2-3 in the Northwest Suburban Conference, 4-4 overall, while Grant's woes continued, 0-5, 1-8.

In addition to Moran, Rob

Horvath and Brian Andrews had 12 each and Steve Taylor had 10. The Rams also received some news they were hoping for as their tallest player, 6-foot-4 Chris Vaughan, was given the OK to practice. Vaughan had been sidelined with a knee injury.

"The kids were confident they could win," Groth said. The Rams had their best shooting night from the field, connecting on 52 percent of their shots.

A key stretch in the game came in the end of the first half when the Rams scored 10 straight. Sean McGeever led the Bulldogs with 16 points and Tim Culotta came off the bench to score 13.

"Turnovers are killing us. We're throwing the ball away, shooting poorly. We played tenaciously in the fourth quarter. If poor to average teams play that way the whole game, they can win some games," Grant Coach Tom Maple said.

Elsewhere in the NWSC Tuesday, Round Lake won a key struggle with Johnsbury 51-47 Tuesday. Adam Tesch led the way with 17 points and Scott Ellenwood added 16. The win improved the Panthers to 4-1, 6-2, while Johnsbury, which is at loop leader Marian Central Dec. 20, dropped to 3-2, 7-21. Round Lake is at Grayslake.

Grant had given McHenry its first win of the year with a 51-40 decision and was bombed by Marian Central Friday. The Warriors won the game with an 18-6 fourth quarter spree. Culotta had 14 points and McGeever 12.

Guards, late defense help Antioch girls gain victory

If there are any monkeys in Antioch, they may be going back to the organ players.

That's because the Antioch girls basketball team, using a strong game from its guards, threw the monkey off its back with a 60-43 win over North Chicago. The North Suburban Conference win Saturday was the first for the Sequoias after six losses.

"In the second half, we started to mix it up a little bit. I was not happy with the way we played defense in the first half," Antioch Coach Al Tamburrino said. Antioch held North Chicago to 16 second-half points.

Guards Stephanie Naypaver and Dawn Morley scored 20 and eight points, respectively. "Stephanie did a great job. She was the tempo-setter. Dawn started to show a lot of confidence in her shots," Tamburrino said.

Antioch faced co-NWSC leader Fenton Dec. 19 before traveling to Mundelein for a 2:30 p.m. game Dec. 21. The Mustangs entered the week looking to dislodge their monkey as well.

Residents named to 'Who's Who'

The 1992 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" will include the names of 30 students from Barat College who have been selected as national outstanding student leaders.

Students named from the Lakeland area are: Debra Ratfelders of Gurnee, Daniel I. Graham of Lake Villa, Geraldine K. Lombardo of Libertyville, and Lori A. VanErden of Wildwood.

'Tis the season

Everyone is in the holiday spirit these days. Yes, even the Cambridge Trails Lion gets into the act by wearing a red stocking. Shoppers are hustling for those last few Christmas presents before that big day.

YMCA to hold kids party

the all-night slumber party, for children ages six to 13, that will be held at the YMCA on Tuesday, Dec. 31 beginning at 8 p.m. and lasting until 8 a.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 1. Call (708)360-YMCA for more information.

Letter to the Editor

New perspective

Editor:

I find it disheartening and tragic that at least three board members, and possibly one more board member, at Grass Lake School cannot leave personality differences at home and conduct the business of Grass Lake School and the children impartially.

To single out one board member and cast her and any associates or friends of hers as Lucifer with horns is obsessive.

This one board member is possibly one of the best members for Grass Lake School. She has an incredible knowledge of board rules, policies, and school history and its many changes over the years. She believes that parents and other community members have a right to information, have questions answered forthrightly and receive help from the school and the board.

She is an invaluable asset to the board, school children and tax payers of our district.

I believe the board members must forget their personal likes and dislikes in the board room. Their priorities should be the children, school, and taxpayers, rather than conducting a personal vendetta.

Every person has strengths and weaknesses in their personal make-up. If we always dwell on the negative side of others and do not recognize the humanity of each and every one of us, we are then displaying some very dysfunctional behavior and we should seek professional help, if necessary, to overcome our negative perspective.

None of us is all good, right, perfect, or all bad, wrong, or imperfect.

No one was elected to the board to be personal friends; the purpose is to represent the taxpayers of our district and its children. To provide the best education for the least cost.

Everyone makes mistakes, does wrong, no one is exempt. If each person examines their own behavior and focuses on themselves instead of pointing out other persons' faults, we would all be much healthier and happier as individuals and as a community.

This Christmas season is a perfect time for everyone to examine their motives and their own faults. We all travel the rocky road of life together having many personal joys, disappointments and sorrows. No one is absolutely wonderful or terrific.

Let us all recognize this about one another and let the new year board meeting in January be a new beginning with new perspectives about each other and our true purpose in being elected to this position.

Janet Lee Harrison
Antioch

Basketball update

It may only take a few minutes to travel from Johnsbury High to Woodstock.

In basketball terms, the difference between Marian Central and the rest of the Northwest Suburban Conference has been of night and day the first round of the NWSC season.

Johnsbury will try to be the first team to knock off the Hurricanes in conference play when the Skyhawks make the short trek to Woodstock for the 7 p.m. game Dec. 20.

Marian Central handed Johnsbury (7-1, 3-1) its only loss, in a 78-47 game.

Johnsbury used 28 points from Todd Freund and a strong second half to cruise over Grayslake 71-44.

"We're really happy we are 7-1, but we want to get better each week," Johnsbury Coach Jeff Lewiston said.

Grayslake (2-3, 1-2) closed a first-half margin to 26-25 but Johnsbury used a breather of a Grayslake timeout to regroup.

"We let the game get away from us in the second half," Grayslake Coach Greg Groth said.

Grayslake hosts rival Round Lake Dec. 20 in a 7 p.m. game Round Lake won the first matchup between the rivals by six points as Pat Lejman scored 22 counters.

The Rams were surprised by the play of Freund. "We wanted to stop Molnar (Jon)," Groth said.

The Rams were coming off an exciting 42-41 win over Wauconda, their first in league play. Brian Andrews was johnny-on-the-spot for the Rams, notching a put-back for the winning basket.

"I didn't know how much time was left," Andrews said.

"I feel we can win every close game," Groth said.

Volling's talents prove worth the wait for RL

While Round Lake was going undefeated in last year's Northwest Suburban Conference boys basketball race, Scott Volling was one of the players sitting on the end of the bench.

While Wally Ilg, Dave Burton and Co. would be lighting up the scoreboard, Volling would be looking on, taking pride in making improvements in practice and in junior varsity games, waiting for his chance to shine.

The wait paid off for Volling and the Panthers as he scored 31 points in two

"It was the first quarter. They buried a few three-pointers on us. It's no mystery what offense they run. We know they have a good inside game with the two big kids down low. We know they have some real good outside shooters, they have for years now. We just didn't execute. We knew we wanted pressure on the outside, we knew we wanted to play the inside on them, we just didn't do the job. We got an old-fashioned butt-kicking," Wauconda Coach Dave Gardner said.

Round Lake, ahead 40-22 at halftime, gained a 20-point lead in the third quarter.

Wauconda was coming off two one-point league losses and a close loss to Lake Zurich. "When you are that far behind, trying to keep that momentum the whole game is tough. If we do that against a better team like a Round Lake, we will get buried," Gardner said.

Round Lake controlled the rebounds 36-27.

Phil and John Sanew tried to keep

WHS close, combining for 25 points, and Byron Johnson added 14.

Wauconda fell to 1-4, 0-3 in the league with the loss. WHS battles Grant away Dec. 20 and then is at the Marengo tournament.

Hoops notes:

Baseball pitchers often say they "left it in the bullpen" when they have a bad outing. "We have quick players on our team but tonight we did not use it. We came out flatter than a pancake. We're as quick as anybody in the conference, but we just did not have our quickness," Gardner said.

Double sports: Wauconda's Johnson, in order to save a loose ball, looked like he was hiking one to the quarterback on one play. Johnson, of course, quarterbacked Wauconda to a conference title and a playoff win.

Wauconda's Jeff Schneider, who injured an ankle, combines basketball with track in the spring. "Big kids are starting to work their way into the lineup. He's not the biggest, but he's a leaper. He is a high jumper and triple jumper in track. It's not hard, he's a pretty tough kid, he's on the honor roll, he gets a lot of rebounds and four to six points - that's his role," Gardner said.

Marian Central has downed Grayslake, Round Lake handed an otherwise unbeaten Johnsburg team its only loss. The Hurricanes' latest victim Grant. You have to feel for Grant Coach Tom Maple. The Bulldogs were picked as early favorites with three six-foot-three starters, but have only won one game in seven outings. And against MC, Grant trailed 32-10 after eight minutes en route to a 86-58 loss.

Johnsburg, which gets another crack at the Hurricanes Dec. 20 in Woodstock, pounded Grayslake 71-44 behind 28 points from Todd Freund.

Crystal Lake South used a 13-4 third quarter run to down Lake Zurich 48-36 in FVC play. LZ gave Dundee-Crown a scare last week.

In the North Suburban, Libertyville's Matt Sriver scored 21 points as the Wildcats held back rival Mundelein 58-45. Stevenson, without Chris Coleman, who was resting an ankle injury, beat North Chicago by 12. Antioch is coming on strong, winning its second conference game in three tries with a 59-55 win over Lake Forest. Tim Fox had 15 and Andy Haley 14 for the winners.

BOYS HOOPS by Steve Peterson

games last week as Round Lake split two conference contests for a 5-2, 3-1 league record.

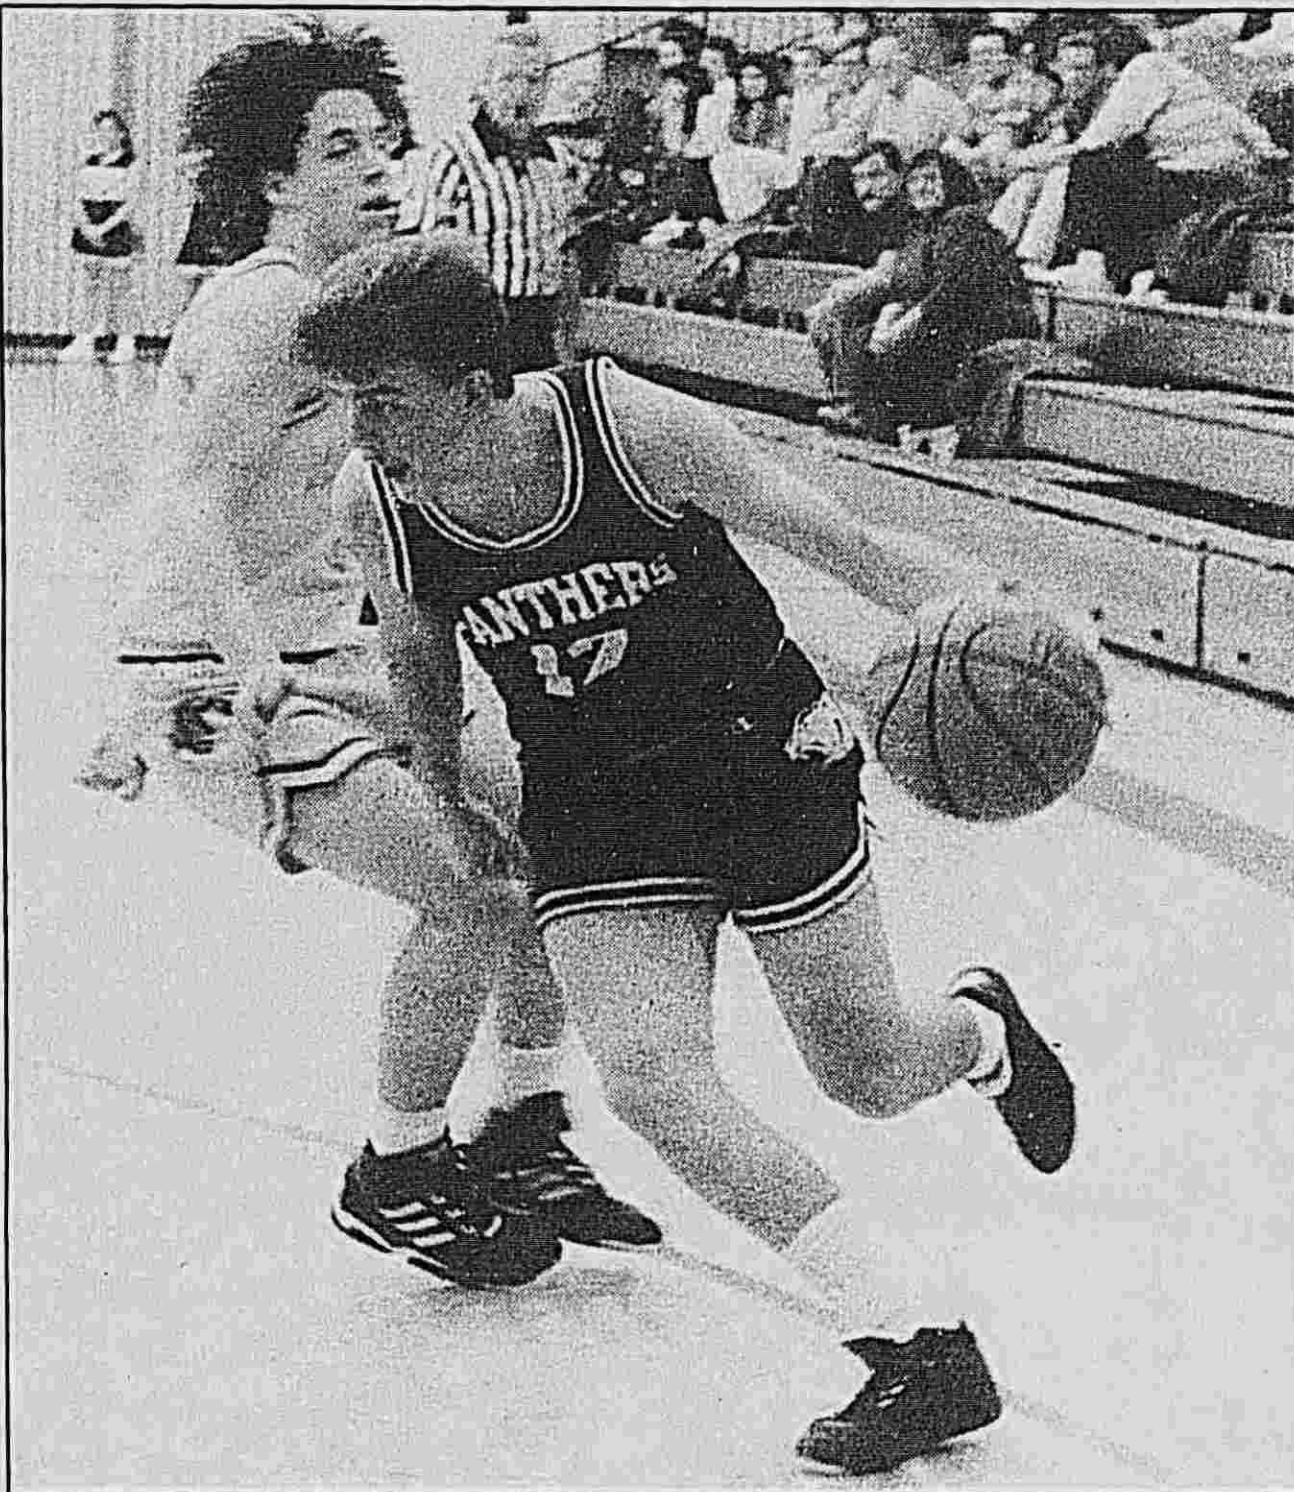

"He was a kid who played very little last year last few games we moved him from post position to outside. He came up throughout the program playing a wing and now we are going to put him in our regular perimeter rotation. That move and the fact he has put in an awful lot of hard work in. He has improved by leaps and bounds," Round Lake Coach Bob Ward said.

The Panthers had just turned back Wauconda 71-50, bouncing back from a 13-point loss to league leader Marian Central. Volling, a senior, was a force against the Hurricanes, scoring 20 points and had a workmanlike 11 against the Bulldogs. Round Lake is at Grayslake for the second time this year Dec. 20.

"In many ways, it is like a junior coming in with little experience. He made aggressive moves offensively," Ward said.

Volling's points came as senior center Pat Lejman scored 21 points, most of his damage in the second half, and junior Scott Ellenwood tallied 16, all in the first half.

Round Lake may never be compared with the old Denver Nuggets running game with 150 points commonplace, but it was a weapon against the slow-starting Bulldogs. Ellenwood hit two first quarter three-pointers and Volling another while Lejman had two baskets from close-range and a put-back as Round Lake built a 20-7 lead.

Sanews provide constant one-two punch for 'Dogs

by STEVE PETERSON
Lakeland Newspapers

Phil Sanew would be the first to admit it.

"I was a pretty nervous," he recalled of the season opener with Huntley.

But the junior guard came through with 14 points as Wauconda beat Huntley 53-31. His brother John would add nine, as the Bulldogs won their season opener for the first time in five years. That set the tone as the Brothers Sanew continue to be a main force in Wauconda's weaponry. It continued Friday, as Phil and John combined for 25 points, half the Wauconda points, in a 71-50 loss to Round Lake.

Yes, the two brothers do go at it in practice, as one helps the other develop hoops skills.

"Phil, at the beginning of the year, was the more well-rounded player. Johnny had a tendency to more more offensive oriented. I have to give John all the credit in the world. His work on defense has been outstanding. I can remember against Grayslake the kid had him by four steps, Johnny put his head down, got position and drew the charge," Gardner said.

Now, there is little difference between the two on the court. Off the court, John is the talkative one, while Phil awaits his chance to lead the Bulldogs next year.

Northwest Suburban Conference teams play each other three times, meaning it will be a challenge for teams to find new wrinkles by the third game. "All these guys I have played against for four years, some of them six or seven. I know a lot of them. A few of them I am friends with off the court," John said.

Phil, a junior, has overcome his early doubts and averages 11 points per game. John, a senior, scores 10 points a game.

"We have different kinds of leaders on the team. We have leaders in practice that to talk a lot. Then we have leaders in the game that lead by doing. Both are needed to have a successful team," John said.

Both are guards, one of the high-profile positions in the game, positions both have played since they could dribble. "I've always liked handling the ball, playing point guard. I think I've limited my turnovers to the most two or three a game. If I can keep it down there the big guys start getting hot, we'll win a lot of games," John said.

Phil prefers basketball since his days at Transfiguration grade school, although he has also played baseball. John, on the other hand, prefers football. His wide receiving exploits are well known in the conference, as he was one of the reasons Wauconda's run-and-shoot offense led the team to the conference title and a playoff win. He is hoping for a Division III scholarship.

Phil and John's parents, John III and Kandy, are always in the WHS rooting section and that means something. "Both of our parents are always at everything," John said.

The boys are not the only Sanews to don a Wauconda uniform. Last year, three Sanews competed as Lisa completed her gymnastics career. She is now attending college at Southern Illinois University.

As for the rest of the year, John Sanew says don't count the Bulldogs out yet. "Coach Gardner has mentioned it alot (the football success). He still believes, as does most of the rest of the team, that we can still have a successful season. We just got off to a slow start," John said.

'Cats, Wantanabe prefer fast-paced basketball

For those who like slow, half-court girls basketball, Libertyville High School was not the place to be Saturday.

Although both teams made enough mistakes for coaches to reach for the Grecian formula, the Wildcats and Patriots put on a show of fast-paced hoops action which fits the leading scorer just fine.

"I'm slow so I like it when it is up and down. It keeps us in the game," Libertyville's Amanda Wantanabe said.

Wantanabe scored 19 points as the Wildcats prevailed 62-61 in overtime, after Stevenson had blown a four-point lead.

The Wildcats were without the services again of Tara Driscoll. The standout is watching from the stands these days as she was felled by an early-season injury. "Tara's injury has pulled us together as a team," Wantanabe said.

Wantanabe did not start the North Suburban Conference matchup, which saw Libertyville improve to 8-2 overall and 4-1 in the NSC. "I like coming off the bench better," she said.

Wantanabe grew up in Libertyville after spending playing solid defense and not have given them open shots. It is a sign of a young team which has not played a lot together," first-year coach Frank

"I'm happy we won. We've been playing in streaks," Libertyville Coach Tom Murphy said.

Libertyville was coming off a 34-32 overtime win over Lake Forest in which Kelly Karl sank a shot which won the overtime game against the Scouts. She had the same chance two days later, but the shot hit the rim.

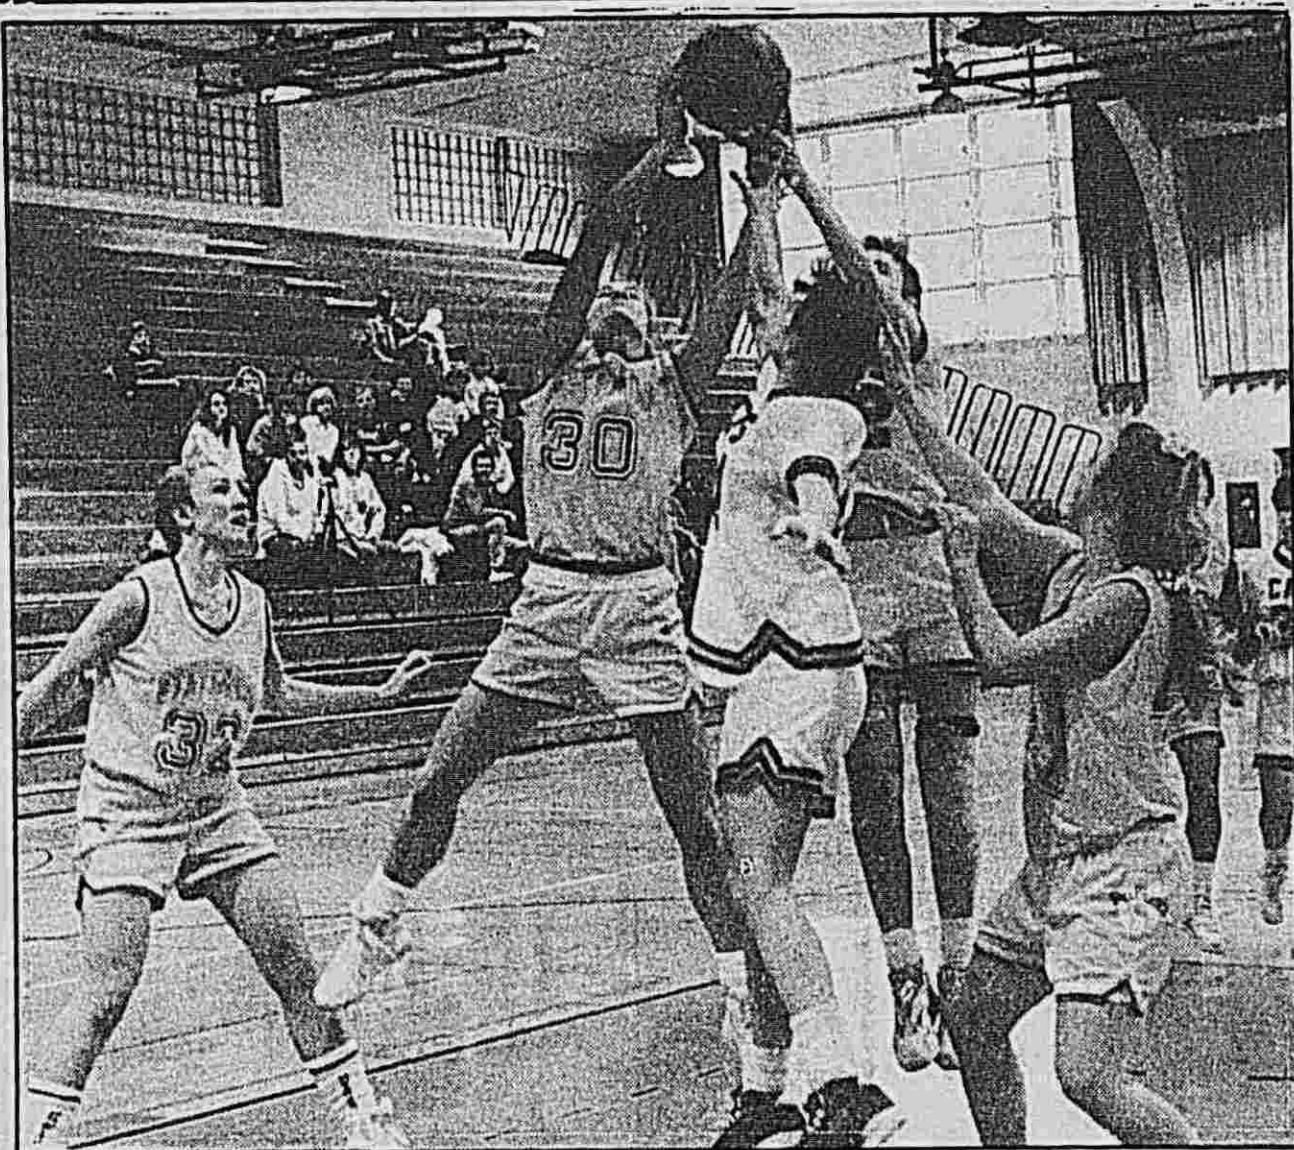

Stevenson had been the story of the NSC until it was knocked off by Zion-Benton 51-23.

Stevenson came back from an 11-point deficit to within two points, 51-49, on a short shot by Jayne Huckbart. Huckbart tallied 21 points and Danielle Mull had 19 for the Pats.

A free-throw by Mull gained a 57-all tie with 27 seconds left. Karl had a shot to win it, but had to settle for a one-for-two winning shot week.

Mundelein faces Pats next*Miller's progress earns him starting role for MHS

and Libertyville feeling good about their accomplishments last week.

Stevenson, meanwhile, rested star Chris Coleman, but came up with two more wins.

Libertyville prevailed 58-45 in the crosstown battle with the Mustangs but Thad Miller, a sophomore, led the way as Mundelein bounced back with a 65-58 win over Lake Forest in North Suburban play. Libertyville made it a double-win weekend with a 57-31 over Zion-Benton. Stevenson remained unbeaten with a 69-57 win over North Chicago and a narrow 78-74 win over Antioch.

All three teams are back in conference action Dec. 20. Mundelein (3-3, 2-1) is at Stevenson (6-0, 2-0) for a 7:30 p.m. game, looking to make amends for a 30-point Stevenson margin in the MHS tournament. Libertyville (4-3, 2-1) is at Fenton Dec. 20 and at Waukegan Dec. 21.

"They shot the ball well and we had too many turnovers," Mundelein Coach Dennis Kessel said of the Libertyville loss.

"In the first half against Mundelein, there was too much one-on-one play. I was real pleased with the second half. We shut down Kessel (Kyle) and felt if Mundelein would beat us, they would have to do it inside. We got better shot selection in the second, third and fourth quarters," Libertyville Coach Max Sanders said.

Mundelein, in fact, led the Wildcats 16-10 after and 25-16 at halftime. But a 26-11 Libertyville run sent the Wildcats ahead for good. Leading the way was senior Matt Sriver, who scored 21 points, 14 in the third stanza.

Miller had 18 points, including a 100 percent eight-for-eight from the free-throw line, in the win over Lake Forest. Cory Kirking had 13 points.

"He has elevated himself into a starting position," Coach Kessel said of Miller.

A key point in the Lake

Forest game was a three-pointer by Matt Brua with the game tied in the fourth quarter.

"Both games we played a matchup zone. It took us awhile to get accumulated to that rotation. I have to give assistant coach Andy Bitta the credit," Sanders said.

Among those leading the charge on defense has been Sriver.

"He has worked hard and is starting to come around. He is making good choices and some of his steals have lead to points," Sanders said.

Jamie Carruthers had 15 points in the Zion game and Gregg Wheeler's rebounding earned kudos from Sanders. Matt Heldman, a sophomore, is also making progress.

"He is a sophomore but he is making few mistakes as far as decisions go. As sophomores, they don't have the experience but it is not showing," Sanders said.

No early presents seen for basketball underdogs

The "upset special" of Mundelein over Libertyville may not have panned out, but the staff of predictors won the other three games for a 3-1 record, leaving an 8-2 record for the first two weeks.

Here's your predictions as teams head into Christmas basketball tournaments from Luther North to Jacobs with these league games Dec. 20:

Wauconda (0-4, 1-5) at Grant (0-4, 1-8), 7 p.m.: Wauconda, like everyone else, fell to Marian Central. The Hurricanes prevailed handily Tuesday, 80-48, so Wauconda will be coming into the game off two tough tilts against league leaders, losing to Round Lake by 21 last week. But Grant has been a cure for more than one team's ills this year. John and Phil Sanew and Co. get back on the right track, downing Grant by 10.

Round Lake (4-1, 6-2) at Grayslake (2-3, 4-4), 7 p.m.: Grayslake reached .500 overall with a 62-54 win over Grant as Derek Moran scored 20 points, 16 from the free-throw line. The Rams have been playing scrappy and competitive since the loss of tallest player Chris Vaughan due to knee injury. Vaughan received the doctor's OK to practice on Thursday. Round Lake proves too deep for the Rams, winning by the same margin they did the first time out, with a six-point win.

Antioch (2-1, 3-4) at Warren (2-0, 4-1), 7:30 p.m.: Antioch's football team took pride in handing Warren its only regular-season football loss.

Notre Dame (1-2, 4-2) at Carmel (2-0, 4-2), 7:30 p.m.: Carmel's 65-47 win over lowly Holy Cross may have seemed like a scrimmage in a way, as the players who normally ride the bench receive considerable playing time, hence the leading scorer being Pete Eisenbarth with eight points. Carmel continues its first-division status in the East Suburban Catholic Conference, winning by eight.

Snell's effort not enough

Jenny Snell won three of four events and the all-around for Mundelein, but Libertyville won the meet 132.1-123.8.

Snell was first on the vault (9.5), bars (9.1), floor around) and Colleen Stephens (floor) all recorded thirds.

"The girls did a lot better," Mundelein coach Pam Kennedy said. "The scores were not as high, but the Stevenson was Allison Galatte, who claimed three medals including a third on the vault at 9.4. Other medal winners were Nicole Mariani (floor), Amy Citron (beam) and Elana Patt (vault and bars).

Stevenson coach Judy Harwood said the Conant performance was "much better. It's really exciting because that's not the best they can do. We scored a 136 and we haven't put everything in yet."

Vicki Summers is the new coach at Lake Zurich. Summers has her own professional dance company and teaches dance at Harper College. Her squad of is preparing for its opener against Cary Grove Jan. 6.

exercise (9.3) and was second on the beam (8.2) for a 36.1 all-around. Teammate Jenny Facek was second on the beam.

Libertyville's Sara Schieffer was first on the beam (8.4) and took seconds in the rest of the events and all-around. Teammates Tyn Mantucca (vault), Wendy Gold (bars and all-judging was consistent."

Libertyville coach Curt Austin has more than his excellent team to get excited about — he and his wife Debby are expecting a Christmas-time baby.

Stevenson claimed third place in the Conant Invitational, which was won by Buffalo Grove.
